Rocky Path toward Merger of Town's Two Environmental Commissions Nearing an End

"There's a lot of land out there," said Borough Council member Gus Escher feelingly, training his binoculars on the distant marches of Princeton Township.

Mr. Escher is concerned most immediately about a technical and philosophical matter: he'd like to get the name of Princeton Borough linked with Princeton Township in the titles and deeds for those Open Space and recreational lands to which the Borough has contributed part of the purchase cost.

Longer range, he and many others in both municipalities, are wondering about joint Borough and Township action in regard to newer pieces of open space, and about merger of the communities' two Environmental Commissions.

Last Wednesday, in an act which has caused genuine distress and consternation on both sides of the municipal line, the Township's Environmental Commission chairman, H. Philip Minis, resigned.

Township Committee refused to accept his resignation. Its members and those of the Commission plan to talk it over with Mr. Minis when he returns from a two-week vacation, and convince him, if they can, that he should remain.

"Capricious and irresponsible (stronger words come to mind) and careless of the volunteer effort without which municipal governments like ours cannot function - were the words Mr. Minis chose to express his feelings about what he regards as delay in merging the two Environmental Commissions, and in approving the development of Turning Basin Park on Lower Alexander.

Merger of the two Commissions, apparently a simple, almost stroke-of-the-pen, act, is more complex than it seems and at the moment, is caught in confusion. Mr. Minis wrote in his letter of resignation that he was upset at Township Committee's decision to consult further with Borough Council before taking any merger action.

This "reverses the decision Committee reached last fall when they requested Township counsel to draft a merger ordinance."

But Mayor Josie Hall pointed out that Committee does indeed approve the concept of merger, and just wasn't ready with the details for an ordinance, "then and there."

Meanwhile, the Borough has decided to study its whole committee structure. Between now and the end of the year, William H. Selden will examine everything – public works, aging, environmental committees, and so on – and everybody has thought the Borough wouldn't be ready to say "yes" to a merger of the Environmental Commissions until January 1–if then.

Environmental Approval for Parking Garage At Medical Center Brings It Nearer Reality

An expectant father cruising the Medical Center parking area would be paying college tuition before he ever found a parking space. But no longer. Or so the Medical Center hopes.

The Center would like to build a three-story parking garage for 398 cars on Henry Avenue. Its requests for variances are on the agenda for the Township Zoning Board's meeting this Wednesday, but the Planning Board has asked the Zoning Board to put off the hearing to the June 22 zoning meeting. It is expected that the Zoning Board will agree.

The Planning Board asked for the change because it won't be holding its own meeting until June 6. It has some Medical Center business of its own to attend to on that date, and would like the Township Zoning Board to have the benefit of its comments.

The Medical Center's garage is largely in the Township, but there is a snippet in the Borough. Under the new land-use law, a use variance-site plan proposal goes to a zoning board, but a conditional use-site plan requirement goes to the planning board. Presumably, the Planning Board will have conditional use and site plan all neatly tied up after the June 6 meeting, and the Township Zoning Board can go on from there.

The Center needs height, floor-area ratio, parking and rear-yard variances from the Township.

Two Abstain. On Monday, the Planning Board's Environmental Design Review (site plan) Committee, voted 6-0, with two abstentions, in favor of the garage. The abstentions were Denys Reid and Peggy McNeil, of the Borough and Township Environmental Commissions respectively.

"We didn't want it to be a 'no'," Mrs. Reid explained. "Clearly the hospital has explored other alternatives – has asked employees to park at the Shopping Center and take the bus, has considered its own bus, but we learned that in Annapolis, busing the employees in simply created chaos!"

John Kauffman, executive vice-president of the Medical Center, told the site plan committee that many of his employees come from Trenton and drive right by Helene Fuld hospital there. If the Medical Center in Princeton won't provide parking, he said, employees will quit and get a job at Helene Fuld.

Last week, both Environmental Commissions frowned on the Center's plans for a garage, citing its size and the possibility of exhaust fumes. But Mr. Kauffman was apparently persuasive.

Pollution Surveyed. The Center commissioned environmental studies from James Madison Hunnicutt and Associates, parking and transportation consultants from Washington, who did parking surveys and prepared environmental data on pollution, noise and wastes. The firm concluded that a house 150 feet from the center of the garage would experience an increase in carbon monoxide of about one to two parts per million. In winter, with storm windows up, this would have "no effect," the report said.

Noise would not be a problem, the consultants said, because cars would be traveling at slow speeds inside the garage, and there would be landscaping and the garage itself to minimize noise.

The Medical Center also took its case to the Township Traffic Safety Committee. Its members were particularly relieved to learn that the driveway that exits into Witherspoon directly opposite Birch Avenue would be closed. It's an accident-prone intersection.

The Traffic Safety Committee accepted the plans, as the Medical Center presented them.

At present, Medical Center parking areas provide 525 parking spaces. Mr. Kauffman and the Center's staff estimate a need and demand for 770.

The new garage would have a total of 398 spaces, and would provide a net increase of 313 spaces. This is 68 over the estimated 770 demand.

The spaces are used not only by Medical Center staff, but by visitors, and by patients, doctors and staff for the Medical Arts Building in the Medical Center complex.

Meters to Be Used. The Medical Center plans to meter all street-level parking places on the hospital grounds, and charge fees for use of the garage. There will be no special provisions made for employees in the Medical Arts building.

Most of the traffic is expected to enter from Witherspoon and drive past the main hospital entrance to the garage. Some 10 percent of the traffic will enter from Henry, it is estimated.

Present parking lots north of the Medical Arts building and near the intersection of Witherspoon and Henry will be redesigned.

GOALS ADOPTED IF...

And Moore Voted In. The school board unanimously adopted the Goals Statements Tuesday night, but not without a little picking around the edges, and with an "if"

The statement should be sent to the board's lawyer, Thomas Cook, suggested member Winthrop Pike. If Mr. Cook finds no illegalities, the goals would be regarded as passed. The other eight members agreed. Board policies are routinely sent to board counsel, Mr. Pike pointed out.

Judith Getis' resignation took effect after Tuesday night's meeting and the board unanimously voted in Joseph P. Moore to replace her. He will be sworn in at the board's meeting next Tuesday at 8 in the Valley Road building.

"The goals are to free our minds to dream up our ideal school system, with the highest regard for excellence," said Nancy Kirby, of the goals committee, in a background presentation.

When question time began, board president Dietrich Meyerhofer complained that the goals hadn't mentioned the development of students' abilities to plan their own programs.

"Did you fill out an opinionaire?" asked Mrs. Kirby promptly. "If you did, that question would be in our supplement and I don't recall seeing it."

When Dr. Meyerhofer suggested that perhaps the goals were not appropriate to all ages of students, Mrs. Kirby replied, "We thought they were!" Dr. Meyerhofer also said he would have liked the study of literature added to the English language skills goal. Mrs. Getis asked why the study of geography was left out.

"I don't know what we could do to this fine piece of work to make it better," exclaimed board member Rosalind Frisch, moving to accept the goals statement immediately without the usual one-month wait.

Gail Firestone said the public should be given another chance to comment. Dr. Meyerhofer agreed and Mr. Pike asked why "shortcircuit the usual procedure" of waiting a month.

The community had had plenty of opportunity to comment, Mrs. Frisch replied, adding, "If we really believe in community participation, we should move ahead tonight."

Mrs. Getis observed that the one-month delay was to insure that "nothing was foisted on an unsuspecting public, which is hardly the cause here."

In the vote to adopt without delay, Dr. meyerhofer, Dr. Firestone and Mr. Pike voted "no," and the measure passed, 6-3.

THE GREAT WINES OF MEDOC

The Medoc is a triangular peninsula stretching north-west from Bordeaux for a distance of some fifty miles. It is bounded on the west by the dunes and pine forests along the Atlantic, and on the east by the Gironde estuary. This is a red wine district. The Medoc peninsula is divided into two basic "appellations" – "Medoc" is the part north of a line joining the villages of Saint-Seruin-de-Cadourne and Vertheuil, while to the south is "Haut-Medoc" - an area stretching to the outskirts of the city of Bordeaux. Haut-Medoc is the cradle of the famous parishes or communes of Saint-Estephe, Pauillac, Saint-Julien, Margaux, Moulis and Listrac, the home of the great "classified" chateaux of world renown and the Bourgeois Growths which are their close followers.

Wine from Medoc is remarkable for its finesse, elegance, bouquet, and rich ruby color. Medoc is the home of the following world famous chateaux. Lafite, Margaux, Latour, Haut-Brion, Mouton Rothschild, Cos d' Estournal, Bechevelle and many others.

Environmental Merger

However, Mr. Escher said this week that the basic decision to get on with merger is THERE, in Council's collective mind, he'd like to see it on the June 14 agenda, perhaps with a simple "yes" vote on the concept, and an ordinance to follow, maybe in July.

He himself, he added, believes now that the merger is fine, which he didn't a year ago.

Who Will Pay? But there are details, chiefly about budgeting.

Would the Borough contribute to the Township's gypsy moth spray, which is in the Township Environmental Commission budget?

Would the Township contribute to control of the locusts like those that descended on the Borough in 1970?

What's the distinction between a "community" park and a "neighborhood" park? Which one is a strictly municipal cost, and which ought to be a shared cost?

Although the Borough contributed to the purchase price of some Township open space land, it doesn't pay for maintenance. (There is, however, a 50-50 sharing of pay for the summer work crews that clear out trails.)

What Formula? How would costs be assigned -- rateables, or some other way?

The great big question, of course, is how much, or even whether, the Borough should contribute to buying or developing open space land in the Township. There is, as Mr. Escher observed, a lot of it.

The north side of Route 206, now being developed, was acquired wholly with Federal and state money. Originally, the Borough said it would help the Township develop the park, but Council backed away because acquisition of its own Quarry Park was imminent.

"We felt a little badly about not doing as much as previous Councils had said we'd do," Mr. Escher explains, "so we agreed to contribute to the amphitheatre."

The Borough has not asked the Township for any contributions toward development of Quarry Park.

Joint Efforts. Autumn Hill, the Van Dyke-Wight property, part of the Woodfield Reservation, the development of Community Park -- all involved the financial participation of the Borough and some of these bonds are still being paid off.

The Borough originally agreed to share in the Township's own share of buying the Houghton-Castoro tract, nucleus of Turning Basin Park, but changed its mind. Having made an agreement, however, the Borough felt it should contribute something, and helped to pay various fees amounting to some $2,000. Both Borough and Township contributed $500 toward repairs at Camp Tamarack, which is in the Township.

Turning Basin Park? So far, the Borough has said "no."

Money would be for development and the Township has applied for Green Acres money toward the project. There was also a thought on Township Committee that West Windsor might be asked to join, and this is one of the things that so angered Mr. Minis.

"...the park would be overrun beyond its capacity, if it is developed at all," he wrote in alarm.

Lion Now in Picture. The newest project comes from the Lions Club. Its members have $9,000 toward a Little League baseball field at the Grover Avenue playground – in the Township.

First, the Lions outlined their plans to Township Committee, asking for financial support. Next, they went before Borough Council. Obviously, boys from both communities play in Little League ball.

But does the Borough want to contribute to one more thing that's being built on Township land?

"We get upset and annoyed sometimes because there is no overriding policy," Mr. Escher explains. "We need to sit down with the Township and develop one. Then people like the Lions, would know how it's done. That kind of proposal should have gone to the Recreation Board, and be put in their budget, for example."

This "sitting down" with the Township will be done on Monday, June 13, at 8 p.m. at the public library. That meeting will chiefly be devoted to the library's plans for expansion and to the Little League proposal, but Mr. Escher hopes to use these projects as a springboard for his own concerns about joint Borough - Township open space.

Various Possibilities. Speculating about possibilities, Mr. Escher thinks the new Municipal Liaison Committee, consisting of Borough, Township and Schools, might be the proper office. Maybe there should be a new joint group. Maybe the two Princetons should look at each other's capital budgets: one has a project sketched in for 1977, perhaps the other has the same project scheduled for '79.

Meanwhile, it looks as though a merger of the two Environmental Commissions may indeed be next. According to Denys Reid, chairman of the Borough's Commission, most Commissioners think land bought in the Township should be partly paid for by the Borough, as in the past.

And both Commissions, which have been meeting together without a formal marriage for something like a year, believe they should merge.

No Pay, Long Hours . . .

Six vacancies are on Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley's list to fill. Want a volunteer, no-pay, long-hour job?

Planning Board: "I certainly am worried about housing, and anyone I'd appoint would have to have an interest in housing," the mayor said this week. He would also like someone with planning and zoning knowledge.

Sewer Authority: The Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority's Borough seat has been held by Thomas Cawley, who is leaving the Authority as soon as the mayor can find a replacement.

Rent-levelling: A non-tenant member is needed.

Housing Authority and Joint (with the Township) Transportation Committee each need one new member.

Apply to Borough Hall, 924-3119.

COMMENCEMENT SET

By Princeton Seminary. Two hundred and thirty men and women will receive degrees on Wednesday, June 1, as Princeton Theological Seminary conducts its 165th commencement exercises in the Princeton University Chapel.

Dr. C. Ellis Nelson, President of Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will deliver the sermon. His daughter, Karin Nelson McAnlis, is among the 143 seniors who will receive Master of Divinity degrees. These graduates, most of whom expect to enter the pastoral ministry, constitute by far the largest group of degree recipients.

SCHOOL BOARD IS SUED

By Princeton Residents. Princeton's school board acted illegally when it went into closed session on March 29 to discuss the election of its officers and when it voted for them by secret ballot, declares a suit filed in Superior Court by the League of Women Voters of the Princeton Community, and two Princeton residents, Lucy MacKenzie and Nancy Bruce.

It has always been customary for Princeton's school board to elect its new officers by secret ballot. Board counsel Thomas Cook ruled at the March 29 meeting that for "sunshine law" purposes, a school board member is "personnel." Under the sunshine law, personnel discussions may be held in executive session.

In a court decision related to the East Windsor school board, the court said a board could go into executive session to discuss selection of someone on the board.

However, the Princeton case involves election – not selection. Attorneys in the New Jersey Division of Public Interest Advocacy, who will act for the Princeton plaintiffs, want the court to say whether a board can confer secretly where election is involved.

Sandra Ayres, attorney with the Division, said this week that the state may move for summary judgment -- asking the court whether secret ballots do violate the sunshine law. The plaintiffs may also seek summary judgment in the second question -- whether the board illegally went into executive session.

If there is to be summary judgment, Ms. Ayres said, she hopes for hearing in June. The plaintiffs want the court to declare the March 29 election void, and order a new one.

PARADE FRIDAY

For Memorial Day, Princeton's annual Memorial Day Parade sponsored by American Legion Posts 76 and 218 will be held Friday evening at 7. Led by their respective color guards and and Borough and Township police chiefs the parade will march up Nassau Street from Princeton Avenue to the Battle Monument.

In the line of march will be D. Don Richards, general chairman of the parade; Donald W. Griffin, Colonel, U.S. Army retired, honorary parade marshall and speaker at the ceremonies in front of Borough Hall; state and county legion officials, Borough and Township government officials; Princeton University and Rider College R.O.T.C. units and honored guests riding in cars. In addition to the color guards and members of Posts 76 and 218, representatives from Hamilton Township, Trenton and Hopewell Valley American Legion Posts will also be marching.

Music will be provided by three drum and bugle corps, and the Romanairs, baton twirlers from Trenton will perform enroute. Children along the route will receive free American flags, courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton area which is participating officially in the American Legion event for the first time. Chamber participation, the final special event of Chamber of Commerce month, is being coordinated by Bill Fisher of Connecticut Life Insurance Company.

Thomas Ward is master of ceremonies in front of Borough Hall, which will include the talk by Col. Griffin, prayer and benediction by Post 76 chaplain the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker and a brief drum and bugle concert.

Other Memorial Day weekend events to honor the war dead include a Military Mass Sunday at 9:45 in St. Paul's Cemetery conducted by the Rev. Monsignor John J. Endebrock with a salute by the Post 76 Firing Squad. At the same time, military ceremonies will be conducted by Post 218 at the Princeton Cemetery flag pole off Witherspoon Street under the direction of Post Commander Howard Graham.

Posts 76 and 218 will place American flags at the grave of every veteran in St. Paul's, Princeton, Dutch Neck and Penns Neck cemeteries. Post 76 graves decoration chairman is David McCloskey, assisted by members of Post 218. Over 1,000 flags are expected to be placed by Sunday.

If any veteran's grave has been overooked, call Post 76 or 218 or 924-0914 and make arrangements to pick up a free flag. The Legion also requests all residents to display the American flag in honor of those killed in wars.

FIVE FIRES REPORTED

None serious. Borough police listed four fires last week and Township police one. None was serious.

Two fire trucks responded Monday afternoon at 2:30 for a grease fire in the kitchen at the Ivy Club, 43 Prospect Avenue. Damage was minimal.

A general alarm was sounded Friday morning at 11:22 for a fire near the Princeton High School auditorium entrance but responding fire equipment was not needed. School officials put out the fire.

Police said the blaze was confined to a wooden frame around a door which was set afire either by a cigarette or by someone inserting paper in the frame and lighting it.

A fire in the engine area of a car at Nassau and Vandeventer was extinguished last week by Ptl. Bernard Lenhard using an extinguisher from his patrol car. The owner of the car is a resident of Whippany.

A Lovers Lane resident called police Thursday morning to report a fire in Marquand Park. Three patrol cars and nine firemen from Engine No. 1 responded to put out a burning stump that had been set afire.

Saturday afternoon, Frances Poe, 206 Linden Lane, called police to report a brush fire at 296 Ewing which abuts Linden.

Upon arrival, Ptl. Robert Nielsen said that a neighbor was wetting down a smouldering hedgrow at the rear of 296. He used his patrol car extinguisher to put out the remaining flames.

A three-foot wide area approximately 30 feet long was scorched. Police said that the fire had apparently been started by someone using or playing with matches.

DEMOCRATS UNITED

But Not to Endorse Byrne. Princeton's Democrats aren't feuding as they were a year ago and everything looks serene on the local scene.

However, supporters of Governor Brendan Byrne and Joseph Hoffman couldn't muster the necessary two-thirds vote required by the Princeton Community Democratic Organization for endorsement. Mr. Hoffman did receive a majority vote, however. They were the only two gubernatorial candidates to receive nominations at a PCDO membership meeting.

Peter Bearse of Princeton, received enough votes to obtain an endorsement from the group in his bid for a State Senate seat.

Democratic candidates for Borough Council – Nelson van den Blink and Leona Medvin – are unopposed in the June 7 primary, as are Democratic Township Committee candidates Kate Litvack and David Klein. All won unanimous endorsement from the PCDO.

Unopposed Freeholder candidates James Heddon and Eugene Howard, and Assembly candidates Thomas DeMartin and Barbara McConnell were also endorsed.

FOUND IN STOLEN CAR

Two Teenagers Charged. Two teenagers, 13 and 15, from Franklin Township and Somerset have been charged with possession of a stolen car by Township police.

The two were approached by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord who, while on routine patrol, saw their car in a ditch on Cherry Valley Road, opposite the rear of the Nassau Oil Company. As he was checking their identification, the two youths started to run. Ptl. Gaylord apprehended them after a chase.

After police had determined that the car had been stolen from Franklin Township, it was turned over to its owner. A check of the car by police also uncovered a brown paper bag containing green vegetation believed to be marijuana.

The youths were then turned over to Township juvenile officer Anthony Pinelli. Ptl. Gaylord and Ptl. Peter Savalli are continuing the investigation.

TWO HOMES ENTERED

While Occupants Sleep. Two homes – one in the Township and one in the Borough – were entered and looted last week while the occupants were asleep.

Taken from the home of Stanley M. Davis, 246 Shady Brook Lane, were a stereo system, microwave oven, clothing, camera equipment and other articles with a combined value of $2057. Mr. Davis told police that he discovered a sliding door in the kitchen open when he came down stairs at 7:05 Friday morning. The family had retired, he said, at 1:30. The investigation by Ptl. Jerry Offredo is being continued by Det. Samuel Bianco.

A Borough home on lower Nassau Street near Harrison was entered last Wednesday evening between 11:15 when the family retired and 8:45 the next morning when the entry was discovered. A rear door had been forced, police siad.

Taken were an Oriental rug valued at $1350, a color TV set, stereo system and Polaroid camera. Total value of the missing items is $2,565. Ptl. John Clark investigated.

A thief forced a rear window to enter Rosso's Cafe, 16 Spring Street and, once inside, stole $275. Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Gerald Patterson investigated the entry reported at 5:45 Sunday morning.

Taken last week from several rooms in the home of Joseph Lynch, 166 Jefferson Road, was a total of $97.50. Nothing else was touched, police said. They report entry was gained through a cellar window.

There was an attempted entry at the home of Harry Gildar, 12 Shady Brook Drive.

Ptl. David Cromwell responded when an alarm sounded in Township headquarters at 8:13 Saturday evening. No one was home at the time but Ptl. Cromwell found pry marks on a rear door. Mr. Gildar informed police the next morning that nothing was missing and no entry had been made.

TWO ARE FINED

For Red Light Violations. Catherine Francomano, 18 Juniper Row, and James G. Krueger, Princeton Inn College, were each fined $15 Monday in Borough court for red light violations.

Cheng Volpp, 116 Poe Road, paid $10 for jaywalking, while in a criminal charge, John Duncan, 7 Leigh Avenue, was fined $160 for possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

In Township court last week, Charles I. Robertson, 466 Mount Lucas Road, was fined $60 as an unlicensed driver and $30 for operating an unregistered vehicle. A careless driving offense cost Douglas R. Cherrington, 73 Edgemere Avenue, Plainsboro, $25.

YOUTH APPREHENDED

Charged with Stealing Bicycles. A 19-year old Princeton High School senior has been charged with attempting to steal bicycles and parts from the Princeton University campus.

Jay A. Brennemann, 389 Prospect Avenue, was observed by Proctor Samuel McElvey at 4:10 last Wednesday morning as he was allegedly placing bicycles in his car on University Lot 5 off Washington Road. He was placed under arrest and taken to Township police headquarters.

According to police, there were four 10-speed bicycles in the suspect's possession, two valued at $200 each. Three were owned by residents of Gauss Hall, the other by a Brown Hall student. In addition, Brennemann allegedly had a Suntour derailleur in his possession valued at $25. Police said their investigation is continuing.

Brennemann was later released, pending his court appearance June 2.

Come On In, The Water's...

Keep This Weekend
Warm for swimmers.
Who cares if the Summer simmers?

The Man obviously doesn't need any urging – everybody's weather in these parts will be warm right through the weekend. The happy details about opening of Community Park Pools will be found on the preceding page.

The steadily rising humidity has prompted a forecast of possible thundershowers for late Wednesday afternoon or evening. If they occur, the humidity will be a bit lower Thursday, but not the thermometer.

By Saturday, temperature readings may top 90. No real rain in sight. It all sounds more like Fourth of July than Memorial Day weekend.

"Bang!" by Tschaikowsky

Tschaikowsky didn't realize, when he scored his "1812 Overture" that he'd need a permit from Township Committee before an orchestra could play it properly.

The New Jersey Symphony has booked the Overture for its July 3 concert in Princeton, and has also booked the International Fireworks Company to provide two minutes of fireworks "with cannon-like noises" for the Overture's bang-up conclusion. Tschaikowsky specified cannon, not "cannon-like," but times have changed.

There will be 22 rockets, 18 "cannon-like sounds" and – it is hoped – some 5,000 spectators, at what the Princeton Pops Concert Committee calls its "extravaganza." Princeton University's Pardee Field is the spot.

SWIM, DON'T PARK

New Pool Regulations. Too many non-swimmers have been using the parking lot in front of the Community Park pool complex. Township Committee, in the brave hope it can solve the problem, introduced last Wednesday an ordinance regulating parking in that lot. Public hearing Wednesday, June 1.

Police will receive a five percent salary increase this year under the new PBA contract approved last Wednesday. After one year's service, a patrolman will receive $14,628, leading to a maximum of $16,864 after four year's service. The maximum for sergeants will be $18,317.

Officers will also get a personal leave day, one more paid holiday (for a total of 12), improved major medical coverage and an increase from $225 to $275 for plainclothes.

"You members of Committee would have to work 14½ years to get a patrolman's salary!" exclaimed William Sutphin, from the audience. A former member of Committee, Mr. Sutphin thinks members should be paid more than their present $1,500 a year. He also

Borough Council's Heavy Agenda Ranges From Junior Baseball to DNA Research

Re-combinant DNA research, housing, rent-levelling, Little League baseball and that aborted meeting on the Public Library are all on Borough Council's agenda for the next three weeks. The public is invited to all meetings.

DNA Research: A work session with members of the DNA citizens committee and Council will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall on Tuesday, May 31. There will be no public participation, but the public is invited to attend and listen to a discussion on the committee's report.

On Wednesday, June 8, there will be public meeting at 8 p.m. in Community Park School on the DNA report. "We urge the public to attend and to comment," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week.

The report, expected in municipal halls this week, will contain both majority and dissenting views, according to Mayor Cawley.

Princeton Community Housing: At 5 p.m. this Thursday, members of PCH and representatives of Princeton University will meet with Council for a status report on the 100 units planned for the parking lot west of the Princeton Playhouse. Parking and financing are key topics on the agenda.

Housing Appeal: The appeal of the Princeton Housing Coalition from Planning Board approval of the University's life-sciences building on William Street, will be heard by Council at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 1, in Borough Hall.

Rent-levelling: With the landlord survey about to go through the computer and the tenant survey still lacking its 100-tenant quota, Council will nevertheless sit down for its first major discussion of rent-levelling at the agenda meeting of Thursday, June 9 at 8 p.m.

Public Library: Making a fresh start, members of both governing bodies – Borough Council and Township Committee -- will meet at the library at 8 p.m. Monday, June 13 to discuss the library's plans for expansion.

Possible construction of a Little League baseball field will also be discussed.

worries that municipal officials are naked before the law -- with no financial protection if somebody sues them.

"Police are not overpaid," said Mayor Josie Hall sharply, "I am not required to defend myself with a weapon, nor do I need special training."

Mr. Sutphin said he hadn't meant that, and Mayor Hall said she agreed that liability could be a problem, with increasing court actions, and she suggested it for July consideration. "I would be very un-willing to vote for a raise," she said.

Margaret Broadwater, who is not running for re-lection, reminded her colleagues that she had opposed Mr. Sutphin's suggestion when he first made it. Now, she said, she was becoming concerned. By not paying more to Committee members, she mused, perhaps the community was reducing the pool of good people who might otherwise be willing to serve.

Medicaid patients," says a report released this week by the Family Service Agency of Princeton.

The agency is sponsoring what it calls a "client advocacy project" – attempting to find out more about medical care for the poor and perhaps working out proposals for a change.

The problem came to the Agency's attention last year. A woman who had a Medicaid card went to Family Service because she couldn't find a doctor who would take her as a Medicaid patient and she had exhausted her financial resources paying her medical bills.

Inquiries conducted by Andree Marks, administrative interne at Family Service, disclosed that there were other cases like this one, known to welfare directors and others active in the health area.

No Easy Answers. Family Service then formed a committee, comprising members of its own board's Client Advocacy Committee, local welfare directors and others with experience in health care.

Members collected cases of low-income people who were eligible for Medicaid, and who had had trouble finding anyone to give them medical care. Committee members talked with doctors, Medical Center administrators and Medicaid officials.

"It quickly became apparent," the report says, "that there is no easy way to find out which doctors, if any, will accept Medicaid patients."

Neither the local Medicaid office, nor the Princeton Medical Center nor the local chapter of the American Medical Association had that information.

"It was clear from spot-checking and informal sources of information that most doctors in the Princeton area did not accept Medicaid patients.

"There may indeed be a few doctors who accept at least an occasional Medicaid patient, but they are neither readily accessible nor sufficient in number to meet existing needs."

Further Research Planned. Many problems criss-cross one another in the field of medical care for the poor, the committee discovered. Accordingly, the group has divided itself into four sub-committees.

One will do research on Princeton Medical Center clinics; another will explore dental needs; a third will survey community health services and a fourth will investigate Medicaid in relation to private doctors.

Marjorie Blaxill is chairman of the Advocacy Committee. Sub-committees are headed by Louise Bessire (Medical Center clinics); Joan Nielsen (dental needs); Kate Shankweiler (community health services) and Katharine Popenoe (Medicaid).

Committee members are Rachel Armstrong, the Rev. Daphne Hawkes and Gertrude Scheide, all of the Family Service board; Kay Boals of the Family Service staff; welfare directors Linda Durney, Dorothy Kruger and Jane Kahn; Evelyn Geddes of Planned Parenthood; Jocelyn Helm, director of the Princeton Senior Resources Center.

Also Ann Honore, director of the American Red Cross' Princeton chapter; Janet Pearson, director of the Council of Community Services; Catherine Phillips, director of the Princeton Homemaker Services and Jean Large of the Council for the Aging.

AWARDS PRESENTED

To Home Health Aides. The annual meeting of the Princeton Community Homemaker - Home Health Aide Service was held in the Doctor's Lounge of the Princeton Medical Group.

For 10,000 hours of service Mrs. Lucy DeBose of Princeton, Mrs. Jean Fletcher of Hopewell, and Mrs. Eva Mae Thomas of Robbinsville received special awards from the Rev. Fred Quigley, president, and Mrs. William Cromer, vice president of the board of trustees. 2000 hour pins were presented to Mrs. Carol Kelsey of Trenton and Mrs. Eleanor Duble of Lawrenceville by Mrs. Phillips, director of Homemaker - Home Health Aides.

All of the Aides are trained by the Agency and certified by the New Jersey State Department of Health. Eleven trainees received their Home-Health Aide Certificates. Mrs. Connie Kilmer, supervisor of the Volunteer Friendly Visitors, an arm of the Homemaker Agency, gave recognition to several volunteers who are visiting people who requested the service on a regular basis. She also praised those who make daily calls as part of the Telephone Reassurance program.

The Homemakers were organized in 1959 in Princeton, and in their first full year gave a total of 6,390 hours; in 1976 the total had risen to 75,583 with 64 Homemakers who are also certified as Home Health Aides.

WITH CARE AND PATIENCE: The fine art of creating a terrarium is demonstrated by Janet Haring (left) and Lois Randall, chairmen of the Royal Feta Garden Committee.

TERRARIUMS AVAILABLE

At Royal Fete. The Garden of Eden had nothing on the Royal Fete Garden. Temptations on June 11 will be equally enticing, according to co-chairmen Janet Haring and Lois Rendall.

Gracing the entrance to the tent will be an arrangement suitable for patio or deck, created with oriental ambience by Townsend Scudder of Ambleside Gardens. A small container pool will be surrounded by potted plants and bonsai, all of which will be for sale.

Although no self - respecting royalty in ancient days would have been without an herb garden for medicinal purposes, present day gardeners cultivate herbs primarily for their seasoning value. For them, the tent will be well stocked with rosemary, dill, thyme, basil and other varieties. Statuary in the form of cats, rabbits, turtles, pigs and squirrels, pedestal bird baths, and sunburst wall plaques will be available.

New this year are terrariums planted with miniature African violets, ferns and mosses which offer a minimum of upkeep. New also are dish gardens and ornamental topiaries fashioned with various kinds of ivy. The do-it-yourselfer can purchase all the tools and plants needed to create terrariums or topiaries at home.

Favorite perennials and annuals such as begonias, geraniums, impatiens and zinnias will be in plentiful supply. It is not too late to fill out the garden with new additions or to purchase tomatoes, peppers and other vegetable plants to savor through the summer. There will also be hanging baskets profuse with fuschia, lantana, verbena and petunias.

The Garden tent could not prosper without the generosity of many Garden Club members who, in addition to pricing plants and staffing the tent, also nurture plants from seed to garden-ready annually for the benefit of the Medical Center at Princeton. The Garden committee gratefully accepts any contributions. Call them, or deliver to the tent on Friday, June 10.

CAR IS DAMAGED

By Vandals. An expensive sports car parked in the Palmer Square lot next to the Princeton Playhouse was damaged last week by vandals who slashed three tires and gouged the hood with a sharp instrument.

The owner is a Palmer Square resident. Police said the incident took place between 5 and 9 p.m.

THREE ARE CHARGED

In Marijuana Transaction. Two men and a 17-year old Princeton girl were arrested last week on Nassau Green on the Princeton University campus and charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Det. Timothy Huizing of the Borough's narcotics squad allegedly saw a drug transaction take place and made the arrests. Police identified the two men as David Dunham, 20, of Plainsboro, and Anthony D. Rowe, 24, of North Brunswick. They were issued a complaint summons and released.

The juvenile was turned over to Borough Juvenile Officer Douglas Watson for processing.

In a lively issue of American Scholar, John P. Sisk (Professor of English at Gonzaga University) writes about The Tyranny of Harmony:

> But being a man or woman is a high-risk enterprise; the gap may come to appear terrifyingly or intolerably wide. Those who become terrified by it are as likely to end up in tyrannies of virtue as those who become morally outraged by it.*

And he adds:

> Perhaps a corollary, then, is that the true measure of a free and humane society is not so much the extent to which harmony and virtue prevail in it as the degree to which its numbers have a disciplined capacity to live with the jangling evil that is the underside of its freedom, but without ever ceasing to oppose it.

In a splendid presentation of the meaning of ambiguity in our lives, John Sisk assails the literary intellectuals who dream of the perfect world and yearn for revolutionary methods of bringing that fascistic (but to them, aesthetic) order into existence.

Sisk suggests that we accept with keen awareness the tensions that will always obtain between good and evil. Only in doing this can we become negotiators in the ongoing conflict between opposing forces.

The perfectibility of humankind and society is a dubious goal. Nonetheless, to my way of thinking, every existential moment that you and I can make a decision on the side of integrity, valor, decency, quality, and "ungreed" will help mediate between the forces of darkness and those of the light.

There is something each of us can do about the plagues of, for example, pornography, the second-rate, and just plain trash—keep our wallets closed. If the cash register doesn't ring, much that is printed will disappear—not via censorship, but bankruptcy.

CLINIC ESTABLISHED

In Behavioral Medicine. Princeton House announces the establishment of a behavioral medicine learning clinic. Dr. Sutton Hamilton, medical director of Princeton House and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry, of the Princeton Medical Center, said that the clinic in its initial phase will conduct a group headache program under the direction of Les Fehmi, Ph.D.

Medically pre-screened persons suffering from migraine or tension headaches will participate twice weekly in two-hour long training sessions for a minimum of nine weeks and for a maximum of 12 weeks. The training will include relaxation training, attention training, and biofeedback training.

Biofeedback training is a recently developed technique by which persons learn to control physical processes of the body. In biofeedback training, the participant is informed, by means of a sensory signal, usually a tone or a light, of the state of a particular aspect of his body's functioning, e.g. the level of muscle tension, temperature, or the frequency and amplitude of his brain waves.

By using the information contained in the feedback signal, reflecting changes in the monitored physiological process, the trainee can gradually learn to control the monitored functions.

The training will start when a sufficient number of properly screened applicants are available. For further information call (609) 921-7700 Ext. 413 or 414.

TWO NAMED DIRECTORS

Stuart Students Honored. Two members of the junior class at Stuart Country Day School have been elected to the Board of Directors of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Elizabeth Oglesby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Oglesby of 293 Riverside Drive, and Michelle Nicastro, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman J. Nicastro of 52 Heather Lane, were elected at the annual meeting of the Chapter last week at Bedens Brook Country Club. They have been involved in teaching Red Cross first aid classes "First Aid for First Grade" and "Sticks, Stones and Unsafe Homes" in the first and second grades in the Princeton, West Windsor and Montgomery schools during the past two years under the Community Service program at Stuart.

The philosophy at Stuart includes the belief that a truly-educated person must be able to respond to the needs of others, and to have a sense of responsibility for meeting commitments. Therefore, the community service program is an important part of the curriculum in the Upper School, and participation is required for graduation.

Early in each school year a Community Service Day, organized and planned by the director of the program and the students on the Community Service Council, acquaints students with opportunities for service in the greater Princeton area. Time is provided in the schedule to enable each student to serve once a week.

AT THE BIOFEEDBACK CONSOLE: Dr. Les Fehmi, who will direct a group headache program as part of a new clinic in behavioral medicine at Princeton House, sits at the machine by which persons learn to control physical processes of the body. (Creative Photography)

Robert A. Gladstone

SEEKS REPUBLICAN POST

As County Chairman. Robert A. Gladstone, 240 Fieldboro Drive, Lawrence Township, announced this week that he is a candidate for Republican County Chairman for Mercer County. His opponent is Nancy Schluter, the present chairman.

County chairmen are not chosen in the primary, and neither Mrs. Schluter nor Mr. Gladstone will be on the ballot. Under the law, district committeemen and committeewomen gather on the Tuesday after the primary -- June 14 this year -- and elect a chairman.

"I have obtained strong support from the supporters of all Republican gubernatorial candidates," Mr. Gladstone declared this week, "Moreover, I have the backing of leaders and members alike from such diverse areas as the Hopewell Valley, the Princetons, the Windsors, the city of Trenton and its immediate suburban neighbors."

"Both the membership and local leadership have the ability and desire to reshape the Party into a viable political force," Mr. Gladstone said, "Unity, basic organization and genuine enthusiasm for the cause will revitalize the Mercer County Republican organization."

GUITAR IS STOLEN

Valued at $540. A guitar in a case valued at $540 was stolen last week from the living room in the home of Mary Brennan, 135 Harris Road. Nothing else was taken, said police, who reported entry was by way of a rear screen door.

Telephone equipment valued at $500 was taken last week from a terminal room in the Engineering Quadrangle off Olden Street. The loss was reported Thursday. The room had been forced open, police said.

A Princeton area resident lost $148 when his locker at Dillon Gym was rifled Monday between 1:30 and 2:30. Also taken were the victim's swim suit, gym clothes and gym bag.

A Princeton University student had her purse containing $16 stolen Sunday when she left it unattended in a reading room at Firestone Library. A Jefferson Road resident listed the theft of two stereo speakers from his car while it was parked near his home. They were valued at $25 each.

Police said that a wire had been used to enter the car between midnight and 9:30 Saturday morning. The car's interior door panel was also damaged.

PICNIC PLANNED

For Seniors. The Princeton Senior Citizens Club and the Recreation Department will co-sponsor a picnic Thursday, May 26, in honor of Senior Citizens month. The event will take place at the Princeton Country Club on Route 1, beginning at 12 noon and running until 5.

Transportation will be provided from Princeton to the Mercer County Park location. A bus will leave Community Park Pool Parking Lot at 11:30 and a second bus will leave from the Spruce Circle area at 12. The bus will make return runs at 4:30 to Community Park, and at 5 to Spruce Circle.

A nine hole game of golf, beginning at 9, has been planned as well as bingo, music and socializing during the afternoon. Everyone planning to attend should call Mrs. Fitzgerald, 924-3935, or Mrs. Thompson, 924-4552, to discuss what foods they should bring to complete the lunch. Beer, soda, and coffee will be provided.

All Princeton Residents are urged to attend and help make the day one to remember. Call the Recreation Department at 921-9480 to register and give your name, phone number, if you are going to use the bus, where you plan to leave from and if you plan to play golf.

Most Residents of New Jersey Now Support Decriminalization of Marijuana Possession

A majority of New Jersey residents now supports the elimination of penalties for the possession of marijuana, according to the tatest Eagleton Poll. The results of this statewide survey show that 54 percent of adult New Jerseyans agree that "penalties for the possession of a small amount of marijuana should be eliminated," while 42 percent are opposed, and 4 percent undecided.

Poll results over the past five years have shown a steady trend toward increased public support for less strict marijuana laws. Three years ago, results to the same question showed elimination of penatties for possession of a small amount opposed by a 46 percent to 51 percent margin. Five years ago in 1972, the margin was 34 percent in favor of to 56 percent opposed.

However, Poll results also indicate that public support for decriminalization for possession of a small amount does not mean people favor complete legalization. Only 29 percent of all New Jerseyans agree that "the sale and use of marijuana should be completely legalized," while 66 percent are opposed to legalization, and 5 percent undecided. Support for complete legalization is up slightly from 1974 when the margin opposed to it was 23 percent to 73 percent.

Not surprisingly, there is a large "generation gap" in attitudes toward decriminalization. Among 18-29 year olds, nearly three out of four–74 percent–support the elimination of penalties for the possession of marijuana. Among 30-49 year olds, 5.3 percent support decriminalization. But among New Jerseyans over 50, only 41 percent support the elimination of penalties for the use of marijuana.

In addition to the young, support for decriminalization is strongest among liberals, the college educated, and wealthier respondents. Opposition to fix decriminalization comes primarily from Republicans, conservatives, those with less than a high school education, and older people.

Poll analyst Scott Taylor pointed out that "support for less restrictive marijuana laws has always been stronger among younger people than older people, and as today's youth, along with the young people of the 1960's and '70's, come to make up a larger part of the population, their views on marijuana will become increasingly important."

He added that poll results "show a softening of negative attitudes toward decriminalization among nearly all groups in the state. Many are still opposed, but the extent of their opposition seems to be ebbing year after year."

The Eagleton Poll is conducted regularly throughout the year by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University. A scientifically-selected random sample of 1005 adults, 18 years and older, were interviewed by telephone.

Marijuana Use Up Slightly. More than one in five New Jersey adults report having used marijuana, according to the Eagleton Poll. The statewide survey, finds that 22 percent of the state's residents 18 years of age or older acknowledge having used marijuana at some time. This figure is up only slightly from 1974, when a similar Eagleton Poll found 19 percent of New Jerseyans reported having used marijuana.

Based on these results, Scott Taylor, Associate Director of the Poll, estimates that of the approximately five million adults in the state, more than one million have tried marijuana.

Poll results indicate that marijuana use is widespread among people in the 18-29 age group. Three out of five – 60 percent – in this age group say they have tried marijuana, while only 15 percent of New Jerseyans in the 30-49 age bracket acknowledge having used it, and only 2 percent of those over 50 say they have tried it.

The poll also shows that if marijuana use were legalized, it is unlikely that an epidemic of marijuana use would result, as some have suggested. One reason is that not everyone who has tried marijuana has liked it.

Only 59 percent of those who have tried the drug say they would consider its use if marijuana were legalized.

Furthermore, only 4 percent of those who report never having used the drug say they would consider its use if marijuana were legalized.

Mr. Taylor pointed out that "these findings in New Jersey appear to support a study by the National Governor's Conference, which concluded that decriminalizing the possession of small amounts of marijuana does not lead to any substantial increase in the drug's use."

As for decriminalization, a majority of New Jerseyans now favor eliminating penalties for the possession of marijuana. By a margin of 54 percent to 42 percent, state residents agree that "penalties for the possession of a small amount of marijuana should be eliminated."

Not surprisingly, people who have previously used marijuana overwhelmingly support its decriminalization by an 85 percent to 13 percent margin. People who have never used marijuana oppose elimination of the penalties for possession of a small amount by a margin of 52 percent to 45 percent.

Part of the reason for opposition to the decriminalization of marijuana use may be fear of the consequences for marijuana users. Nearly two-thirds of those people who have never used the drug agree with the statement: "People who use marijuana are likely to go on to use other illegal drugs." On the other hand, only 20 percent of those who have tried marijuana agree with this statement.

ALL FACETS OF FRAMING

At The Frame Shoppe. Number 72 Witherspoon Street is an unpretentious store that seldom features anything but the simplest window display. Yet as soon as you open the door, it is obvious that a great amount of work is accomplished here.

For, this is The Frame Shoppe, which specializes in all facets of framing. Starting the picture is a huge selection of moldings, probably one of the largest anywhere, including not only the standard pre-cut kind but also many hand-carved ones.

Among these, the choice is almost unlimited because each is a custom job, and any design or shape can be adjusted as to scale or finish. The carving is completed only after the frame has been assembled, and so the work is quite lovely with the pattern matching perfectly in each corner, concealing the miters.

Other frames available are plexiglass box ones, welded aluminum or brass in approximately 10 shapes and aluminum section frames in 18 colors and several shapes. The Frame Shoppe also carries a choice of photograph frames in all sizes, although actually any frame in the store can be made with a standing back (removable or not) to accommodate photographs.

Museum Standards. Whenever necessary, The Frame Shoppe adheres to museum standards, assuring long-term preservation. This means using inert materials such as 100 percent rag board for mats, no glues and a special plexiglass that filters ultraviolet rays.

While these materials might be recommended for very fine art works, they are expensive and certainly not required for general framing purposes.

Owner, Dave Rosendorf, is a native Princetonian who learned framing from his parents. He is knowledgeable about the different periods and willing to guide his customers in choosing a proper frame.

For instance, sometimes a choice must be made between gold or metal leaf. Gold, of course, is the real thing and 100 years from now will be equally beautiful. However, it is expensive and not all framed pieces are meant to last forever. The same general effect can be achieved with metal leaf, which although gold in color is actually made of a bronze base. Unfortunately, it does tarnish, but Mr. Rosendorf antiques his frames so as to minimize this process.

There are also decisions to be made about mat boards (which can be lined French ones, any color imaginable or oval;) the use of linen liners; and picture glass versus the non-reflecting kind which Mr. Rosendorf uses only when it is to be placed flat against the picture surface.

A new process here is the production of non-reflecting plaques which is a perfect way to display diplomas or certificates. The idea of laminating a diploma onto a wooden plaque is not new, but the development of a non-reflecting surface is, and The Frame Shoppe plans to offer a special sale on these during June as a way of introducing them to the Princeton area.

Although the specialty here is framing, Mr. Rosendorf generally has a small collection of dry point etchings, drawings and lithographs. These are of collector quality and can be seen by appointment.

There is also a cabinet of prints which are available at excellent prices. They were bought more than ten years ago but never advertised, and over the years the cabinet became hidden behind various pieces of work.

Now the space is needed for framing, and all the prints are for sale at their 1965 or published-date price. There are approximately 3,000 prints of works by Picasso, Seurat, Audubon, John Sloan, Pieter de Hooch and others, with many prices between $1 and $6.50.

The Frame Shoppe, 72 Witherspoon Street, is open Monday through Friday from 9 until 5, and Saturdays from 9 until 12.

SOMEDAY IS NOW

For Art Gallery at Owen's Barn. How many times has someone said, "Someday, I'm going to have my own store?" Well, for Vivienne Cummings the someday arrived earlier this month when she opened The Art Gallery at Owen's Barn.

An artist herself, she feels that in general artists are very sensitive people. Thus she accepts all types of art, whether or not it exactly represents her taste, and the result is an unusually varied collection.

Particularly interesting are some wall hangings from Pakistan which depict traditional scenes such as a courtyard or wedding with embroidery, applique and painting. They are quite colorful and have marvelous details, $19 to $28.

Also interesting is Jack Fry's painting behind an old Tudor-style window. Taking his cue from the triangular panes, he has laid out a patchwork of still life and flowers, $65. Then, in some other works he has used textured small pieces of wood to build houses and fences before a painted background of the sea or sky.

Other paintings include a mountainous pine forest by a college student and Mrs. Cummings' own works. These range from a realistic depiction of Kafka's trial in somber colors to an impressionistic picture of some marsh grass. Her colors, subjects and styles are broad enough to satisfy most tastes, as are the prices, $35 to about $275.

Pottery, Jewelry, Tao. The pottery here is traditional, meaning there are pitchers, bowls and vases in a cream to brown glaze ($4.50 to $12) as well as unusual. For instance, by an Egyptian named Sayed Khalifa, The Art Gallery has two abstract figures -- one representing the Tree of Life and the other a man and woman, $55 and $95.

Two jewelers have their work here, too. Beth Olney makes necklaces, pendants and earrings of shells and beads, $5 to $14, while Carol Taraschi works with silver. We liked her bracelet of overlapping triangles, $22 and there are earrings to match at $8. She also has twisted bangle bracelets and lots of rings with semi-precious stones.

Other art pieces here are sand castings of crabs and seahorses, brass or silver belt buckles, and even clothes by an English designer.

In addition, Mrs. Cummings has ordered a line of Utrecht art supplies which should arrive any day. She feels this company makes the best paints, and will have these as well as canvas boards, brushes, easels and other materials.

Located at 79 Main Street in Kingston, The Art Gallery at Owen's Barn is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 to 5.

FRAME JOB: All facets of framing are available at The Frame Shoppe on Witherspoon St., which offers custom moldings as well as pre-cut ones. Here owner Dave Rosendorf works on a large hand-carved frame for a mirror.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

A Time to Fly the Flag.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last Memorial Day, of the Bi-Centennial Year, no less, was among the best-be-forgotten days in this aware village.

Memorial Day, 1976, 10 a.m., Princeton revealed: No American flag displayed at our several public school buildings; but flags were up at all fire stations, and waving beautifully at both municipal offices.

But all flags that were displayed were at the top of the pole; the concept of the flag at half-staff until noon on Memorial Day seemed to be genuine news at all points of the line. The police in both cases made quick correction; the fire houses did not respond to knocks on the door; the schools were traditionally incommunicado.

Morven was its own case. No flags out at all at 10 a.m.

A state trooper's hunch was that it must have looked like rain earlier (no problem by 10), but part of the message got across. Their flags, national and state, on their massive poles, were half-masted by late morning. But - when Morven was next sighted, at 2:30, their two flags were still at half-mast!

It would seem that our flag should be displayed on proper occasions, in the proper manner, from all public buildings - and no one, including those above included, has ever said otherwise. This leaves the schools, which may be closed.

Cannot custodians, teachers, administrators work that out? Students? High School Interact Club? Elementary school Boy Scouts? "Our Flag" is a brief, 1976 write-up; $1.00. US Government Printing Office.

Common Cause Eyes Gubernatorial Races, Reports on Candidates' Varying Viewpoints

(This is the third of a series of four articles on the 1977 gubernatorial election written for TOWN TOPICS by Robert Willis of New Jersey Common Cause.)

WE TAKE ISSUE

Once upon a time, New York's Boss Tweed built a county courthouse for $11 million, with $3 million going to a plasterer named Garvey. Thus began a modern political tradition of expensive cover-ups for personal gain.

Last week, the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission announced that this season's crop of gubernatorial aspirants have already spent $2.5 million primary campaign dollars. About two-thirds of that nourishing, golden river flowed from contributors. To support good government? -- or to buy political favor? We would applaud the former; experience directs us to guard against the latter.

Hoping to block even appearances of purchased favoritism, Common Cause recently asked gubernatorial candidates if they would actively support and sign legislation prohibiting campaign contributions to legislative and gubernatorial candidates from special interests (business, labor, lobbyists, unions, government contractors). Four Democrats (Brendan Byrne, Raymond Garramone, George Koukos, and Emery Zold) and two Republicans (William Angus and Thomas Kean) would unconditionally support such a ban. Raymond Bateman (R), C. Robert Sarcone (R), and James Florio (D) would allow such contributions within reason. Democrats Ralph DeRose and A. Howard Freund do not favor this prohibition.

In addition, all responding candidates (except Freund) would support putting reasonable restrictions upon the amount an individual may contribute to state, county, and municipal political parties.

But if the "fat cats" step aside, who will foot the bills?

In New Jersey, we now have a public financing system for gubernatorial general elections, but not for primaries. Candidates were asked to support a limitation of $600 on private contributions in gubernatorial primary campaigns with public funds matching up to $100 of each individual contribution. Byrne, Kean, Sarcone and Zold would accept this; Garramone would, with the addition of outside total limits for matching funds; Florio likes the limitation, but not the matching funds. Angus, Bateman, DeRose and Freund reject the position, while Koukos simply rejects any and all campaign contributions from whatever source.

How about public financing for legislative campaigns, both primary and general? A $200 ceiling on private contributions plus a similar system of matching funds was suggested. Sarcone and Zold once again like this position; Byrne and Garramone expressed qualified support. Florio favors a ceiling on contributions to legislative candidates: Koukos again rejects any contributions. Angus, Bateman, DeRose, Freund and Kean are all opposed to public financing of legislative elections.

Candidates may still contribute to their own war chests. ELEC data shows, for example, that Kean has donated $85,000 to his present race. Seeking to forestall possible conflicts of interest and to publicize the sources of such personal campaign dollars, Common Cause requested all candidates to publish, at least two weeks before the primary election, a statement of their personal financial holdings, including those of spouse and dependent children.

Among respondents, Freund and Zold decline to do so (Zold stipulating he would release a full financial disclosure if he won the primary). Yet, with the primary three weeks off, only Bateman, Byrne, Florio and Kean have honored this commitment.

Moseley, 113 Linwood Circle, have been accepted as freshmen at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa. and will begin studies there in September. They both plan to major in English.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Iverson, 302 Jefferson Road, attended the 50th reunion of the class of 1927 at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn.

Dr. John R. Bodo, former pastor of First (now Nassau) Presbyterian Church, has written a book called "Adam and Eve and You," published by Omega Books in Corte Madera, Calif. In this book Dr. Bodo retells 11 stories from Genesis so that each story becomes a vehicle for reflection on one or more major human problems.

Dr. Bodo recently completed a seven - year stint as pastor of Old First Presbyterian Church in San Francisco. After leaving Princeton, he taught for eight years at San Francisco Theological Seminary and later was chaplain and professor of religion at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn.

A monumental work by Walter Kaufmann of 429 Prospect Avenue, "Religions In Four Dimensions," published last November in hardcover has now been issued in a quality paperbound edition by Reader's Digest Press. Mr. Kaufman is professor of philosophy at Princeton University where he has taught since 1947, the year he received his Ph.D. from Harvard.

"Religions in Four Dimensions" represents the culmination of more than 30 years of study and reflection. "Believing that "Religions need to be seen as a whole, as living bodies that develop in relation to each other," Mr. Kaufman begins his treatment of the history of ten religions on Mt. Sinai, on a peninsula in the far west of Asia, and moves to Mount Fuji, on an island in the far east. There are two chapters each on Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism and Buddhism, one chapter to Zoroastrianism, and several other religions are considered more briefly.

In addition to the historical and comparative approach to religions, Mr. Kaufman is also concerned with the aesthetic dimension (the book is filled with over 250 of his own photographs, many in color) and the existential dimension, by which he means what people do in following their religion and what religion does to them.

Mr. Kaufman, who has given a course on philosophy of religion most of his 30 years at Princeton, feels there is no subject more important than religion. It involves the most fateful questions, to which different religions give different answers," he writes in the Prologue. He sees "the major religions as alternatives that challenge us to make a choice."

Mr. Kaufman is the author of a number of books on existential thinkers as well as "Critique of Religion and Philosophy," published in 1958. He has translated the writings of Nietzsche and Hegel, and among the books he has edited, "Existentialism from Dostoevsky to Sartre" has just been revised and expanded.

Wilks, 1 Campbelton Circle, and the late Samuel Wilks, was the subject of a front page article in the Washington Post and other newspapers for having spent 72 days in suspended animation in a successful effort by doctors to save his life. Mr. Wilks was paralyzed intentionally with the drug curare in an effort to find a way to fight off pancreatitis and other infections that were killing him.

Neither Mr. Wilks who is a civilian mathematician for the Army, nor his doctor at George Washington University Hospital know what caused the onset of his pancreatitis last November. An operation was performed, but when it became impossible to bring his temperature down from 107 degrees, the curare treatment was suggested to his wife Jocelyn who consented to its use.

During the 72 days the 44 year old man lay conscious but unable to move a muscle or to breathe without the help of a respirator. While he was paralyzed and his system had a chance to restore itself, the doctors attempted to kill, one infection at a time, the various bacteria that had filled his body. AUCTION SCHEDULED

Of Thorne Pharmacy Property. The Probate Division of Mercer County Court has ordered an auction of much of the merchandise and store and office equipment owned by the Thorne Pharmacy, which closed its doors for bankruptcy on March 31.

The forced sale will be held on the premises, 180 Nassau Street, Thursday, June 2, at 11 a.m. Announcement of the auction was made by Burton Peskin of Princeton, a member of the Trenton law firm of Teich, Groh and Robinson, representing the pharmacy's creditors.

Offered to the highest bidder will be "a large quantity of store and office equipment together with a large quantity of miscellaneous notions and other retail items usually sold at a drug store." A hearing to confirm bids will be held the following day at 10:30 before the court's Probate Division.

Established half a century ago by the late Edward A. Thorne, the pharmacy had once operated at both 44 and 168 Nassau Street, but from the mid-30s on had been only at the latter address. When Mr. Thorne, who had become widely known as a Mercer County freeholder, died in 1955, the pharmacy was owned briefly by his widow and then purchased by two of the store's pharmacists, Paul Ashton and Everett Campbell.

Earlier in this decade, Mr. Ashton became sole proprietor of The Junction Pharmacy, which they had opened in Princeton Junction a number of years earlier. Mr. Campbell continued on Nassau Street, moving during the winter of 1976 from 168 to 180.

Expectations are that an office will be opened at 180 Nassau by the New Jersey Savings Bank. Permission for such a facility is now under review in the Appelate Division of New Jersey Superior Court, since it is being contested by four other banks and savings and loan associations here.

EARNINGS ABOUT DOUBLE

At Applied Data Research. Earnings from operations during the March quarter at Applied Data Research were 26 cents a share, nearly double the 14 cents reported for the corresponding period in 1976, President John R. Bennett has told stockholders.

Last year's total net earnings for the three months were 27 cents, but this included a tax loss carry forward of 13 cents. Mr. Bennett said that such credits have now been fully utilized and ADR's profits are now being fully taxed.

Net earnings before taxes were $593,755, compared to $332,715 in the first three months of 1976. Both gross and net revenues were an ADR record for any first quarter in its history.

"Previous predictions of 25 percent growth in revenue and earnings for all of 1977 appear to be on target," Mr. Bennett said. ADR stock, traded on the American Exchange, closed at 7 on Monday.

MORE RESTAURANTS?

Two Owners Hope So. Places for another 115 hungry people will be laid before the Borough Zoning Board when it meets at 8:15 p.m. this Thursday in Borough Hall.

Witherspoon Pizza Plus at 25 Witherspoon would like to convert itself into a restaurant. Its owners, First Princeton Corporation, plan seating space for 85, and need a waiver of parking requirements, a "hardship" variance.

A. & S.'s owners, the Utopia Corporation, want to add 30 seats to the 86 Nassau establishment and eliminate all retail sales. This also involves a "hardship" parking waiver.

Dr. Willard Rainey, owner of the single-family house at 34 Bayard Lane, will ask to have it restored to its former classification as a three-family dwelling. Charles and Letitia Ufford, 150 Mercer, will ask for minor adjustments to construct an addition.

News Of The CHURCHES

TOUR PLANNED

Of Princeton Cemetery. Nassau Presbyterian Church will sponsor its annual tour of Princeton Cemetery on Sunday immediately following the 11 a.m. service. Participants will meet at the Greenview Avenue entrance for the tour which will be led by Mr. and Mrs. William K. Evans of 87 Jefferson Road.

Elmer Chase, who is chairman of the cemetery committee for the Church, has led the tour for a number of years but will be attending his 50th college reunion this weekend. The Evans have led many tours themselves, and Mrs. Evans particularly enjoys showing groups of children all the names of the people who have built Princeton over the years.

A new feature this year is the new Robeson stone which marks the graves of Paul Robeson's father and mother. Early cemetery records were burned, Mrs. Evans says, and for a long time the exact location of the two graves in the old section were not known, but now the site has been found and properly marked.

The Cemetery was originally "up town" on Nassau Street on the University campus, in keeping with an early concept of locating graveyards in the center of town. Later, as the University grew and as the concept changed to making a cemetery a park-like setting with beautiful trees and shrubs, the Princeton Cemetery was relocated "out of town" on land donated by Paul Tulane and on part of Dr. Wiggins' farm.

In addition to the better known Presidents' section in which all the presidents of Princeton University are buried, there are plots for Princeton's notable families, the Stocktons, Alexanders, Strykers, Terhunes, Scudders, Hodges, Armours and Marquands. Aaron Burr senior and junior are buried there, as are two Indians, Joseph Karge the Polish patriot and Henry Van Dyke, author of "The Other Wiseman".

BULLETIN NOTES

Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt will lead services at The Jewish Center on Friday at 8:15 p.m. Hostesses for the Oneg Shabbat in honor of Eileen Filler's Bat Mitzvah are Mrs. Bobbie Braude, Mrs. Phyllis Levin, and Mrs. Sylvia Levy.

Saturday morning services led by Rabbi Glatt will begin at 10, during which time Miss Filler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Filler, will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah. Mr. and Mrs. Filler will host the Kiddush after services.

Dannibelle Hall will present a sacred concert at the Christian Center of Princeton, 223 North Harrison Street, on Sunday at 6:30.

As former lead singer with Andrae Crouch and the Disciples, Ms. Hall's performances have included appearances at Carnegie Hall, New York City; McKormick Place, Chicago; and the Opera House, Sydney, Australia. Her schedule has taken her to Cambodia and the Philippines with World Vision, Inc., Thailand and Vietnam with the USO and a '77 Tour of England and Scandinavia with Andrae Crouch. Augmenting her singing at the piano, she is a composer-writer-arranger and performs her own music.

Everyone is invited. For further information call 921-3404 or 466-0033.

The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Princeton Junction will confirm 10 members on Sunday during the 11 a.m. service. Confirmation is the official rite which admits a baptized person to full church membership. The ten members have completed two years of intensive study including many aspects of the Lutheran religion and how to live with yourself and neighbors.

The new members are Johanna Froehlich, Andy Graham, Tim Gunkel, Jeff Howard, Ray Malacrea, Ned Nuding, Eric Roessler, Chris Saladino, Janet Strohl and Margaret Westlund. Everyone is welcome to the ceremony. For information regarding the church or this service, call the pastor, the Rev. Frederick Schott at 799-1753 or 799-1783.

The feast of Pentecost or Whitsunday, the birthday of the church, will be observed by Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, at The Festival Eucharist of Pentecost at 10, followed by tea on the lawn. Holy Eucharist will also be celebrated at 8, and the two Sunday morning services rather than three mark the beginning of the summer schedule.

Trinity Church will also hold a Holy Eucharist and Healing Service every first Wednesday of the month at 5:30, beginning Wednesday, June 1.

Thomas J. Weber of Lawrenceville, assistant to the Synod President of the Lutheran Church of America, and Joseph Gonzalez of Princeton have been elected to represent the New Jersey synod at the LCA's national convention in July, 1978, in Chicago.

NEW SERVICE OFFERED

By Stony Brook Realty. Stony Brook Realty, 35 West Broad Street, Hopewell, is now affiliated with National Home Relocation Service. The nation-wide network of independent brokers is concerned solely with offering relocation services to their clients moving out of the member broker's area.

Stony Brook Realty's clients pay nothing for this added service -- it is the agency's way of maintaining "back-home" business responsibility to their clients who move away. National Home Relocation Service has members who service more than 1,000 communities; in all 50 states, and some foreign countries.

The local broker contacts a member office in his transferring client's new city. The realtor broker in that city will screen homes, pick-up clients at airports, arrange temporary quarters, etc. Constant contact is maintained between both brokers, as well as with the home office of National Home Relocation Service. In this way, independent brokers can remain independent and yet be connected with a nation-wide referral network.

PRETTY HOUSE ON A PRETTY STREET

That's the first impression created by our newest Princeton Township listing (too new to be sketched for this issue.) Nestled into its peaceful setting of lovely shrubbery and handsome trees, including a big healthy elm, the white masonry (stucco? - will somebody please invent a nicer word for an attractive finish) has an exterior appeal which is happily matched by the interior.

The next impression is one of space, solidity and comfort. The 30 year old house, built by one of Princeton's finest builders, has eight good-sized rooms, including a first floor bedroom and bath. Living room with slate fireplace and bookshelf, dining room, study, and cheery kitchen with eating alcove round out the first floor, with 3 more bedrooms, 2nd bath and piping for a 3rd, on the second floor. The huge basement, with working, playing and storing space, has the added attraction of a fireplace in the potential family room. A large screened porch and central air conditioning are two more assets of a house that has more than we can describe here, particularly at $125,000!

Joint Committee Reviews Protection Against The Fire Next Time

As Princeton grows, will the present system of fire protection be adequate? How can it be made better?

A joint committee of volunteer citizens – Princeton's favorite device, for lighting fires or running the town – was appointed last February to talk about these problems and make some recommendations. Its report has now been submitted to Borough and Township governing bodies.

Highlights:

• Move Mercer Engine Number 3 away from Chambers Street where traffic is thick and parking is bad, to another location, probably in the Township.

• Replace equipment on a regular schedule for the next 20 years. "To go 12 years with no purchase of major equipment and then acquire three pieces of apparatus in three years does not provide adequately for the needs of fire protection." Besides, it's poor planning.

• Set up a structure — which doesn't exist at present — for continuing review of fire personnel. This issue, the report says, "is so important that it should be a topic of continuous review."

• Appoint a Joint Borough-Township Fire Commission to make constant, continuing examinations of what the town needs to protect citizens and property from fire.

• Give the Commission a list of important issues to review -- and the report itself gives about a dozen.

Princeton has three fire companies. Fire-fighters in the community have always been volunteers. There are now 50 men and women in each of the three companies: Hook and Ladder, founded in 1788 and now located in the firehouse on Harrison Street; Princeton Engine Company Number t, formed in 1794 and now housed on Chestnut Street and Mercer Engine Number 3, created in 1847. Number 3 has always been on Chambers Street, by the way. When the present firehouse was completed in 1932, the company simply moved across the street to new quarters.

All three companies serve both Borough and Township. Of the complement of 150, 71 live in the Borough, 40 in the Township, 30 outside the community. Of the latter group. 11 live elsewhere and work elsewhere as well.

Recruiting Not Easy. Only Engine Number t is up to its full membership. Hook & Ladder has only 45 and Engine Number 3, only 46.

It's not as easy to recruit volunteers as it once was, the report notes. Young men – and now women – who might otherwise have joined, are in college, or have postponed the time when they might get full-time jobs and "settle down." Housing costs in Princeton have driven many away, but 21 still live with their parents. Incidentally, the average age is 43.

The report also comments that today, there is "easy access to entertainment." For Princeton, fire companies traditionally provided a pleasant social life in a small town without very many places to go, and today's three firehouses reflect this warm sociable atmosphere.

"The community is very fortunate in the caliber and number of men and women who are members," the report says, "however, conditions may further change" -- and fewer may want to sign up as volunteers.

The committee suggests that future volunteers might be recruited at Princeton University, Westminster Choir College, the Seminary, and the two largest banks. In an effort to find out whether future membership can be predicted, the committee asked Opinion Research Corporation to develop a questionnaire. It will be sent to all company members asking, in effect, "What motivated you to join?"

New Engines Needed. Ask anyone who fights fires in Princeton and you'll hear the word "equipment!".

"Urgently," the committee suggests, Borough Council and Township Committee should adopt a schedule for replacement of major capital equipment. Most fire engines have a maximum life of 20 to 25 years. Princeton has a Mack tanker truck 27 years old, a Seagrave 750 gallon pumper with a 500-gallon tank, 22 years old and a high-pressure fog machine with a 500-gallon tank, which is 18 years old.

All in a bunch, between 1971 and 1973, three pieces of equipment were purchased.

The committee thinks it would be a good idea to start right now, so that acquisition of a new engine to replace the Mack tanker truck can begin this year. Delivery is always some years from the actual order.

Princeton needs a Joint Fire Commission to strengthen the organizational structure, the committee believes.

The way it is now, a new fire chief is sworn in every New Year's Day. He has served an apprenticeship, moving up through the ranks, and he knows at least two years in advance that he will be chief.

Borough Council and Township Committee each choose a Fire Commissioner from their own membership. But they are appointed to serve for only one year -- although the appointment is frequently renewed – and it is not uncommon to have a new fire chief and a new fire commissioner.

In fact, the Borough had three fire commissioners last year: the late Murray Medvin, who died while he held that position; Marvin Trotman, appointed to Council to succeed him, and finally William Selden who took over after Mr. Trotman was defeated in November.

"The only constant is the Borough Administrator, to whom all administrative and purchasing responsibilities are assigned," the report says.

This is not only unfair to the Administrator -- the present Administrator, Robert F. Mooney, is also a fireman -- but doesn't provide for anyone to fill his place if he is incapacitated.

Constant Review. The proposed Joint Commission would take part in the budget process, "continually" review the needs of the fire department and make recommendations.

It would consist of the immediate past, present and future chiefs; both fire commissioners and three members each from Borough and Township. The Borough Administrator would be secretary.

Right away, this new Commission would have home-work.

• A training plan should be worked out, and support should be given for development of the Mercer County fire fighting center.

• Fire and smoke detectors should be installed in all new commercial and tenant buildings, and ordinances should be adopted requiring them, if necessary.

• Princeton has mutual-aid agreements with other towns. Unfortunately, equipment is not always the same and does not always mesh with that of other communities. It would be better if there were standardization. Agreements with these municipalities should be reviewed, and perhaps put in writing.

• Equipment should be tested according to a regular schedule.

• Does Princeton need more fire-hydrants and fire-alarm boxes? As population grows in the Township this should be considered. There are now 32 streetside fire and police alarm boxes, all in the Borough; 142 hydrants in the Borough and 303 in the Township, excluding those on University and Seminary properties and the Shopping Center.

Insurance Rating. Homeowners may be interested to know that Princeton Borough is "D" and the Township "E" on an A-K insurance scale. In 1972, the Insurance Service Office made recommendations to Princeton, such as increasing the supply of hose, and testing pumpers annually, which have been followed.

Some recommendations – relating to the size of watermains, for example – are beyond the power of the

News Of The THEATRES

PRE-SEASON

Pre-View. Pre-Intime. Songs, comedy -- acting, of course -- a classic comic plot and lots of family fun. That's the season opener for Summer Intime, which will occupy Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus while Theatre Intime rests up for fall.

"Cox and Box" is the pre-season, pre-opener preview. It will open this Thursday, and play nightly at 8:30 through Monday, May 30. After a one-night's breather, it will resume Wednesday, June 1 and will play June 2, 3 and 4, also at 8:30.

Two special matinees for children will be given Sunday and Monday, May 29 and 30 at 2:30 p.m., with a $1 admission for children under 14. Tickets may be reserved at 452-8181.

Four plays in the regular season will follow, including a musical, a Shaw and an Arthur Miller.

But that's farther along the time-table.

We begin with "Cox and Box," which steps out of the 19th-century English music hall tradition to be a tuneful score by Sir Arthur Sullivan, minus Gilbert this time. F.C. Burnand wrote the book and lyrics, describing to us the situation of Cox and Box, a pair of working men who share -- unknowingly -- the same one-room London apartment. One works days, one works nights and a greedy landlord works hard to keep each one from knowing that the other is there.

"A pre-season show gives our summer audiences an early taste of the upcoming season," says Geoffrey Rich, one of Intime's two producers (Clayton Platt being the other), "'Cox and Box' fits the bill perfectly -- it's witty, urbane, a highly entertaining evening."

Stephen Sechrist and George Oliva will have the two leading roles, and Dale Coye will be Bouncer, the double-dealing landlord. Mr. Sechrist is also the director, a doubling-up quite appropriate to "Cox and Box."

All three actors have been on Murray Theatre's stage before, in various Intime roles.

"Cox and Box" has given us a chance to work on our own individual styles of comedy, and discover how those different styles can be fused together for a very enjoyable result," says Mr. Sechrist.

After the two indignant tenants straighten everything out, Intime will move on to Bernard Shaw's "Candida," which will launch the regular season.

Arthur Miller's "The Creation of the World and Other Business' will follow. Then, a musical romance, "110 in the Shade", by the authors of "The Fantasticks" and finally, Michael Weller's "Moon-children."

In addition, there will be a film festival, and a children's play, "Alice Through the Looking Glass," based on Lewis Carroll.

ARE YOU TALENTED?

Sign Up for "Oliver." Princeton Community Players' project for the summer is a production of the musical, "Oliver," in Washington Crossing State Park, and performers, instrumentalists, actors, singers, backstage talent – even orchestra conductors – are invited to come around.

"Oliver" will be performed August 18, 19, 20 and again on the 25, 26 and 27th under the direction of Roo Brown. Musical direction will be handled by Richard Loatman.

Anyone interested is invited to call Roo Brown starting this Thursday at 466-2803, after 4 p.m. to make an appointment for an audition.

Also, the Players are now scheduling the 1977-78 season, and those who would like to be directors should call Players' president, Judith Forusz, 883-7355.

TWO PERFORMANCES SET Of Ballet Work.

Tchaikovsky's classical three-act ballet, "The Sleeping Beauty," will be given two performances by the Princeton Ballet Society's School of Ballet Saturday at 11 and 2:30 in McCarter Theatre.

Dancing leading roles will be Andrea Juris as the White Bird and Justin Glodowski as the Prince. Both started their dance training as youngsters at the Ballet Society School and are now members of the Princeton Ballet Company, and Mr. Glodowski is the principal male soloist.

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre box office. Although the $4.95 balcony seats are sold out, a selection of $3.95 and $2.95 balcony and $4.95 and $3.95 orchestra seats is still available.

BUSY SEASON PLANNED

By Street Theatre. Street Theatre has planned a summer of workshops and three productions for young people from grade seven through college age who are interested in theatre.

The workshops will start June 20 with a reader's theatre, followed by workshops in technical theatre, improvisation, voice, theatrical dance and stage makeup. Each one will run a week (five days), and will be limited in size. Registration forms are available now from Debbie Bellow, 921-8826.

Auditions for a major production will be held June 21 and 22 at 7 p.m. in Dorothea House, John Street and Paul Robeson Place, followed by auditions for a children's theatre production on June 28 and 29 and for one act plays July 26 and 27.

Debbie Bellow will continue as producing director; Cher Carden will be the new executive director with Dina Blanc serving as assistant director. Peter Dolotta and Karen Schleyer will be interns this season. New members are welcome to stop by or to call and are promised plenty of things to do to keep them busy.

"MUCH ADO...."

Auditions Scheduled. Shakespeareans, 18 years or older, may audition for parts in the Shakespeare '70 production of "Much Ado About Nothing," to be presented at Washington Crossing's Open Air Theatre and Trenton's Artists Showcase Theatre in late July and early August.

Auditions will be held at the Artists Showcase Theatre, 1150 Indiana Avenue (near the Brunswick Circle) at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 7. Actors unable to attend may call Dr. John F. Erath, who will be the director, and make an appointment. His number is 882-0189. Gerald E. Guarnieri will design the sets, and Diana M. Lunghi the costumes.

There are many parts for both men and women, and Shakespeare '70 also needs technicians and seamstresses. "Much Ado" will open at the Open Air Theatre on July 28 and will play again July 29 and 30. The Showcase Theatre opening will be August 4.

PLAYHOUSE

Annie Hall. By acclamation, it seems, Woody Allen's best film yet.

Woody and Diane Keaton star as Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in a funny, endearing romantic comedy that fictionalizes their once-amorous relationship through the 1960s while poking fun at every absurd cultural artifact of the past 20 years.

Turning his back on the more outlandish absurdities and throw-away sight gags that have characterized his earlier films, Allen traces his relationship with Keaton in a way that almost cronicles the period's neurotic obsessions. Lest anyone mistake the label "serious comedy", "Annie Hall" is consistently funny but on a more verbal and intellectual level.

As Alvy Singer, Allen introduces the focal character in a virtual standup monologue, straight-facedly recalling his lifelong obsession with death and sex. A progression of brown-tinged flashbacks illustrate his precarious homelife. He then proceeds to the sad tale of his abortive relationship with Keaton, an inspired confrontation between a short, bespectacled neurotic Jewish comedian and a lithe, charming, empty-headed ultra WASP. The film follows the two lovers through their respective analysis, separations, reunions and final break.

In moving away from his usual characterization of a flustered, sexually incompetent schlemiel, Allen still pours out a stream of one-liners but the lines smack more of truthful, wry observations than of self-

She is a member of the Princeton Opera Association and performed the role of Felice in "Naughty Marietta" last June. She has sung the role of Madame Enterpova in "Help, Help, the Globolinks," by Menotti and Michael Dellario's "Maud," a monodrama for voice and computer tape. Ms. Lawrence also has sung with the renaissance group, Musica Alta.

WORKSHOP SET

tn Romanian Dance. The Princeton Folk Dance Group is sponsoring a Romanian workshop, this weekend to which all community members are invited. Mi'hai David, a Romanian dance instructor, will teach three dance sessions.

On Saturday there will be two sessions at Littlebrook School, an advanced section from 10 to 12:30, and a beginning and intermediate section will be from 2 to 5. On Sunday from 2-5 there will be another section for all levels of expertise at The Pub in Princeton University. A folk dance party will be held Saturday night at 8 at Princeton Inn.

Mr David will show films of native Romanian dancing and will participate in the evening's dancing, reviewing dances taught during Saturday's workshop. Community members are invited to share in the festivities. Ethnic dress is encouraged.

JOINT CONCERT SET

By Three University Organists. A joint organ concert will be presented in the University Chapel on Sunday, June 5, at 7 as the Baccalaureate concert by the three graduating University Organists.

The University Organist program, which is unique among American colleges, was established in 1973 by Prof. Walter Nollner, director of Chapel Music, upon the retirement of Dr. Carl Weinrich. Under the program, a corps of five to eight students share responsibility for playing the organ at Sunday Chapel services. In addition, they provide music for weddings, memorial services, and official functions in the Chapel and give a series of organ recitals each year at the Chapel and the Graduate College.

The joint program will be presented by Tim Boomer, Frank Nowell, and Roger Ruckert. Mr. Boomer and Mr. Nowell have served as University Organists for two years, while Mr. Ruckert has been a member of the corps since its establishment and is now Principal University Organist. The concert will include works by J.S. Bach, Mozart, Brahms, Karg-Elert, Alain and Sokola.

It is open to the public, at no admission charge.

BENEFIT SATURDAY

For Opera Group. The Princeton Opera Association will entertain its guests with a Gala Champagne Dinner, delightful can-can dancers, operatic highlights, a world premiere, and informal vocal selections at a benefit to be held on Saturday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Giuliano Gorelli in Pennington.

The annual fund raising event helps sponsor the group's operatic productions, two of which will be performed in Washington Crossing Park this summer: "Pirates of Penzance" in mid July and "The Elixir Of Love" over the Labor Day weekend. For further information call 924-3991.

denigration. As the woman he tries to shape – and eventually loses to the glitter of showbiz – Keaton is superb, radiating a kind of daffy beauty that is exclusively her own.

GARDEN

Nasty Habits. The Watergate scandal set in a Philadelphia convent and any similarity is hilariously intentional in this satire as a group of nuns resort to buggings, blackmail and cover ups to win a convent election.

Although the satire tends to wear thin after awhile, there is enough witty dialogue, wry ribbing of the Church and State and just unbridled silliness to make the film a crowd pleaser. And what a collection of laugh getters the performers are.

Glenda Jackson, Sandy Dennis, Anne Jackson, Geraldine Page and Anne Meara are super, whether raising their angelic voices in prayer or lowering them in hushed plotting and venemous planning. They smoke, booze and blaspheme between vespers; they're up to their necks in dirty tricks, concealed mikes, breaking and entering and blackmail.

Sister Alexandra, as played by Jackson, is a divine creation. Meara as a gum-chewing super jock nun and Dennis as the convent's slow-witted John Dean are fine. It may sound as if it were scripted by the National Lampoon staff but it is delightful, irreverent company, nonetheless.

MONTGOMERY

Welcome to L.A. Structurally inspired by "Nashville," this latest film by Robert Altman, who also produced Nashville, concerns itself with a group of Los Angeles denizens whose lives and loves intertwine in desultory fashion.

It is not another Nashville. "Welcome to L.A." amounts to little more than repeated variations on a single theme: the emptiness and emotional stagnation of the good life of Los Angeles – certainly a less-than-revolutionary theme. There is a great deal of pretension here.

What gives it intermittent highs are the performers, including several Altman regulars. Prime focus is on Keith Carradine, a songwriter lured back home to L.A. after a three-year absence from his millionaire father.

Sally Kellerman gives one of her best performances as a neurotic real estate agent, unsatisfyingly married, and desperately seeking a passionate affair no matter how short-lived. Sissy Spacek is a starry-eyed housekeeper who vacuums in the nude and is a part-time hooker, while Viveca Lindfors is effective as an aging talent agent who masterminds Carradine's return home.

Best of all is Geraldine Chaplin as an incurable romantic who makes up for her husband's indifference by pretending to be Camille. Sadly, these characters are only occasionally revealing of anything as valid as human truths.

NEW SEASON AT HAND

For Bucks County Playhouse. "Carousel" will open the 38th summer season at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, when the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical starts a two week run Friday.

This is the first production for the RAM III resident summer '77 company which will use talent from the New Hope area as the backbone of the new Bucks County Playhouse organization. A 15½-week summer season is planned and six different shows will be presented. "Carousel" runs for two weeks, May 27 through June 12, and will return for a third week July 26 through July 31.

Don Knotts in "A Good Look at Boney Kern" follows for a limited two-week engagement, June 14 through June 26. The Playhouse will present nine shows a week Tuesday through Friday at 8:30; Saturday, 5 and 9; and Sunday at 7:30. Matinees Wednesday and Sunday will be at 2.

Season subscriptions are available for a 50 cent discount on each ticket in the series, except Saturdays. Ticket prices range from $4.50 to $8. The air-conditioned theatre is located in the heart of New Hope. For further ticket information, call (215) 862-2041.

CELEBRATION OF JOY by Trudy Glucksberg demonstrates the application of innovative materials to print-making. Collographs by Glucksberg are displayed together with works by Transformations-a designer-artisan cooperative at Gallery 100.

CRAFTWORK ON VIEW

At Gallery 100. It is possible that the intrustion of technology into almost all espects of our existence has generated the renascence of the arts and crafts movement in this country as a form of backlash. The re-emergence of a significant population of designer-craftspeople may be society's way of re-establishing the human creative factor in our every-day existence. The sub-stitution of handcrafted pottery for the Melmac plate, the crafted pillow for the tired damask covered foam and the hand spun vegetable dyed wool for Botany's best may be our way of reaffirming our own value.

The collection of pottery, fiber art, hand-wrought jewelry, custom-spun wool and other handcrafted objects at Gallery 100 offers many examples of how our lives can be enriched by the addition of the artisan's product. A diverse, individually creative assortment of teapots, plates, bowls, ceramic fountains, woven fibers hand-forged silver jewelry and many other wares have been presented by Transformations, a cooperative of 13 designer craftspeople from the Princeton area.

The display expands the viewer's understanding of the possibilities inherent in clay, fiber, metal and wood. Traditional materials and techniques are applied to innovative forms while traditional concepts are developed using new combinations of materials. The result is a gallimaufry of pleasing silhouette, richly varied surfaces, textural contrast and harmonious blends created by natural materials whose effect is heightened by the designer's hand.

Members of "Transformations" are Yvonne Aronson, Betty Ruth Curtiss, Lynn Fraker, Marilyn Garnick, Lucy Scanlon, Alexandra Wahl and Martha Wright, all of Princeton; Connie Bracci-McIndoe and Ilse Johnson of Hopewell; Betty Park of Pennington, Linda Berry Walker of Kingston, Cheryl Vernon of New Hope, Pa., and Gary Kreger of New Brunswick.

Recent prints by Trudy Glucksberg interact well with the many surfaces and forms on display at the gallery. This artist has developed collographs that are dynamic combinations of translucent colors and well conceived forms.

Glucksberg's unique technical approach to her work developed as a result of her experiences teaching art to children in the Princeton Regional Schools. She became aware of the sophisticated graphic possibilities inherent in the simple cut, paste and stencil procedures that were taught to the children. She then expanded this technically simple procedure employing common household materials in the construction of her printing plates. The resulting graphics capture the surface dynamics of the varied printing media. Strong, well-developed compositions, often based on landscape or figurative subject matter, are tempered by pleasant color harmonies and energised by the textures and pattern that are a function of this original, innovative, technical ap-proach.

Firestone Graphics Collection. The monotype is a combination of paint and print techniques that, as the name implies, results in a unique impression. Because of the nature of the medium, which engenders its own stylistic response, we are confronted with a different Avery product. Although the simolicity of form, which is a fire companies. Others simply require the kind of man-woman power the volunteer companies do not have. Two new recommendations were made to the committee from the ISO. They relate to trainiog, which will presumably be taken care of when the county's fire-training school is in operation, and control over hazardous materials.

At the Loft. Watercolor landscapes by Robert E. Moore combine traditional elements with geometric design effects. Seascapes an landscapes are constructed of familiar nature forms, which are then altered by a visual overlay of linear elements and strong planes.

The structure is then softened by the addition of naturalistically rendered elements. The result is highly structured with competent, painterly application of the medium contributing to the effect.

The report has high respect for Princeton's volunteers.

"These men and women epitomize the spirit of contribution for which, in return, they ask cooperation from the community and support for equipment...We wish to record our admiration for these members of the Princeton Fire Department, their abilities and their competence...To them, the community owes a debt of considerable magnitude."

Members of the fire committee were Richard S. Fowler (chairman), Township Mayor and Fire Commissioner Josie Hall, Fire Chief Anthony J. Krystaponis Jr., Eugene J. McPartland, Theodore S. Reed, former fire chief Alistair Stewart and Borough Fire Commissioner William K. Selden.

TO SHOW FILM

On Seabrook Demonstration. Two members of the New Hampshire's anti-nuclear Power Clamshell Alliance will come to Princeton Wednesday at 7:30 to present a documentary film on the Seabrook demonstration in the convocation room of the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Avenue. They are Guy Chichester and Anna Gyorgy, and their appearance is sponsored by Citizens for Responsible Power Policies.

The Clamshell Alliance, a coalition of anti-nuclear and environmental groups, was the organizer of a large scale non-violent occupation of the construction site of a nuclear reactor in New Hampshire that resulted in the imprisonment of 1,400 demonstrators. Two Princeton residents, Barbara Parmet and Douglas Kelbaugh, both active members of Citizens for Responsible Power Policies, attended a rally of some 4,000 people at Hampton Beach State Park, N.H., in support of the demonstration.

The Citizens for Responsible Power Policies are beginning to discuss the possibility of a civil disobedience action against nuclear power in New Jersey. A second plant is to be built at Oyster Creek and two floating power plants have been proposed for Atlantic City. CRPP sponsored a state wide planning meeting last Saturday to consider what action to take against nuclear expansion in this state.

OFFICERS LISTED

For Cooperative Nursery School. The Princeton Cooperative Nursery School, Cedar Lane and Nassau Street, has elected officers for the 1977-78 year.

Elinor Williams will be the new chairman, Debbie Witt, vice chairman; Suzanne Carroll, treasurer; and Suzanne Lorant, officer in charge of safety and physical plant. Molly Dyson continues as member-at-large, and Shirley Heinson will head membership. The secretary, chosen from the new members, will be Marcia Wood, and heading the committees for school newspaper and adult hospitality is Judy Crane.

Kris Sheehan and Betty Lou Allen, teachers, will continue in their positions next year. PCNS has been a non-profit nursery school corporation since 1947. The school emphasizes the child's socialization in a multi-age, open-space setting with active parental participation.

Although there are no more openings in the three-day program, there is a vacancy for the five-day program. Parents interested in an interview should call Mrs. Heinsohn at 921-7271, or Mrs. Williams at 921-6585.

The mighty oak vs. the rock maple.

It's a matter of taste, not strength.

The mighty oak

The solid maple

Even though we like to think we started the whole trend, the truth is, a lot of stores now carry butcher block tables. Three sizes. Maybe even four or five. In one kind of wood.

But at Workbench, we give you your choice of ten different sizes. Most in oak and maple.

Which might lead you to ask, "What's the difference?" The answer is simply taste.

Our butcher block tops are stronger than solid wood

You see, maple wood is fairly even in color. And it comes in relatively wide strips. While oak is more varied in tone. And the strips are narrower. So the finished oak tops have a more patchwork look than the maple tops. Some people like the plain. And some, the patchwork. But when it comes to strength and durability, there's no difference.

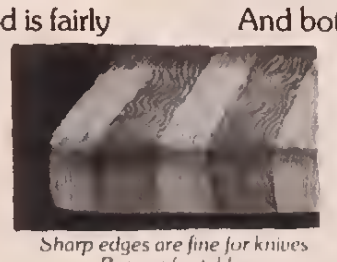
That's because both kinds of tables are made of wood strips electronically fused together to form an almost indestructible panel.

A table top that's actually stronger than solid wood.

And both have hand-rubbed finishes. (Lots of tops have lacquer finishes that look real nice. For a while. But they can wear out in spots. And need expensive re-lacquering.

Our butcher block tops are hand-oiled.

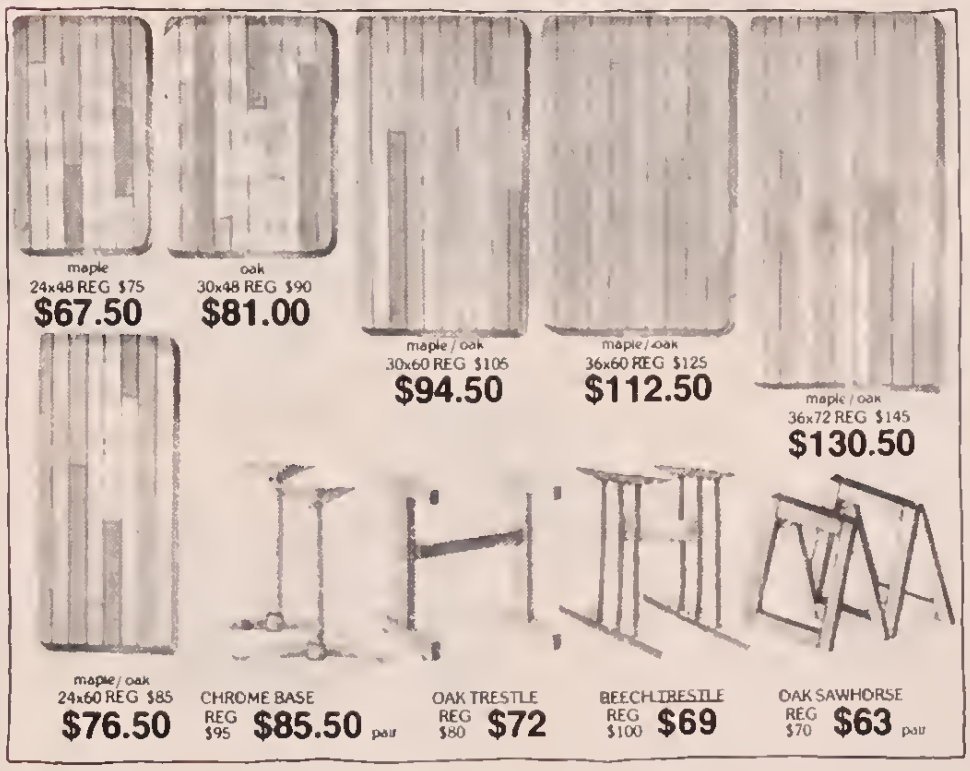
And both have rounded edges. (Lots of tops have sharp edges. And it costs extra to have them rounded off.)



Sharp edges are fine for knives But not for tables

To prove we're not playing favorites, right now, for the first time, every one of our butcher block tops and bases is on sale. So come in and pick your favorite.

Choose from 10 top sizes & 6 bases. All at sale prices for a limited time. Quantities are also limited.



Pick the top and base of your choice. Now add up the price and you'll be pleased how low it is. (Check around and you'll be even more pleased.) Sorry, no custom sizes because that's one way we keep our prices so low. And the money we save on our tables...you can put on your table.

Princeton Day Captures State Championships In Lacrosse and Baseball on Successive Days

No one would have dared predict either one at the start of the season, but the Princeton Day lacrosse and baseball teams won state titles on successive days this week.

The lacrosse team won its third straight championship Sunday with a 6-5 win over Montville, and 24 hours later the baseball team nipped Saddle River, 3-1, to capture its first title ever.

Playing on the University's Clarke Field, where they had lost a championship game to Hun seven years ago, the Panther ball team was not about to let this one get away. However, the fine pitching of winner Mike Walters and loser Randy Kleuyer insured a close game right down to the final out. In fact, if it had not been for a critical error by the Saddle River second baseman, the two teams might still be playing.

The game was scoreless entering the bottom of the third, when Kleuyer ran into a temporary streak of wildness and walked John Hickling and Andy Sanford on eight pitches. Tony Knott laid down a bunt sacrificing them to second and third.

Quinn McCord followed with a slow bouncing ball to the second baseman Brad Martini, who charged to his right, made the stop, but then threw the ball in the dirt and it skipped on by the first baseman. Hickling would have scored anyway, but the error enabled Sanford to cross the plate also, and the speedy McCord wound up on third instead of possibly being the second out.

Jay Nusblatt then lifted a shallow fly to left, which the Saddle River shortstop caught over his shoulder, but could not prevent McCord from tagging up and scoring the third run.

With Walters pitching superbly, he struck out 11, walked only one and gave up four hits, PDS maintained the 3-0 advantage until the fifth, when the losers scored their only run.

Ken Marks singled just inside the bag at first and then stole second and third. He then scored on a slow roller to second which became a hit when the batter beat Evan Press to first base.

That narrowed the gap to 3-1, but Saddle River never seriously threatened again. For that matter, neither did PDS. Except for those two innings, Walters and Kleuyer were in control all the way. The former relied on a fine curve and varied the speed on his pitches nicely, while Kleuyer threw hard and was just wild enough at times to be effective. He struck out eight, and gave up only three hits.

The defensive gem of the game came in the final inning, when Nusblatt went into the hole at short and made a fine throw to first to get the second out of the inning. Walters then induced the next batter to tap back to the mound, and he rushed over to tag him and make the game-ending putout.

The Blue and White advanced to the finals with an 8-2 win over St. Bernard's. Walters was again the main man in the victory, limiting the losers to just three hits, while striking out 14. He also drove in three runs with a pair of singles.

In regular season play, Princeton Day whipped Peddie, 8-1, behind the three-hit pitching of Dave Barondess. Two days later it bombed Morristown-Beard, 22-5. This Wednesday, PDS will end the season against Trenton High, but win or lose the Panthers are already assured of their best season ever with the state Class B prep championship and a 12-3 record.

Lacrosse Wins Third Title. It wasn't supposed to happen again this season, not after many of the top players graduated from last year's championship PDS lacrosse team. This was to be a year of memories and thoughts for the future.

But only a few games into the season, team members began to believe in themselves and the present. The Panthers won their first five games, lost two, but went on to capture the next 10 in a row, and the state title in the prep school B division for the third consecutive time.

It was a team that managed to win every one of the contests where one goal made the difference, and that separates a champion from the also rans.

The Blue and White blew through the final part of the regular season with lopsided wins over George, Rutgers Prep and Hun, and a closer contest against St. Joseph's, 6-4. In the playoffs it had to face two teams it had beaten in the regular season, Edison and Montville. It won both by a one-goal margin.

"We had trouble getting up for these teams, because we had beaten them before," commented coach Bob Krueger. "We were a little flat and they were not."

Against Edison in the semi-finals, the Panthers led 7-2 in the fourth period, but had to stave off a last-ditch rally by the losers that fell one goal short. With two minutes remaining, Edison scored to make it 7-6, but it could not come up with the tying marker.

Mark Zawadsky and Rob Olsson had two goals each, and Kent Wilkinson, Peter Buck and Tim Murdock, one apiece.

The finals against Montville, played this past Sunday, was a complete turn around, as the Panthers had to play catch-up ball most of the way.

PDS scored first, but Montville answered with four and led 4-2 at the intermission. "They were playing a slow-down type of game," Krueger commented. "And when we got the ball we were trying to rush it."

The teams traded goals in the third period, and then PDS narrowed the gap to 5-4 early in the fourth. It stayed that way for a long time, despite the constant siege on the Montville goal by the PDS attack.

Finally with no more than two minutes left a shot by Olsson off a pass from Zawadsky found the mark, knotting the score at five all. Zawadsky scored the winning goal just 10 to 15 seconds later, and the Panthers ran out the clock for the championship.

PDS finished the season 14-2, bettering last year's mark of 13-2. The extra contest this year was against Summit, an A division team. Krueger said that the school was going to explore the possibility of moving into A division competition in lacrosse next year.

EIGHTH SEED WINS

In College Baseball. When Catholic University (of Washington, D.C.) closed at the end of April for the summer, members of its baseball team went home. Diplomas in hand, seniors were either job hunting or had actually started work on jobs they had landed.

Nearly three weeks later, the college's Department of Athletics was busy making phone calls to them. Catholic's 14-and-6 record was good enough to land a berth in the ECAC playoffs, and just six days remained before the first game at Princeton. Time barely permitted scheduling a practice game or two to regain batting eyes and limber up pitching arms.

The Tournament Committee felt Catholic deserved a place in the eight-team playoffs, but no better ranking that than eighth in the seedings. On that basis, the Cards, who had not been able to top .500 last year, were matched against St. John's which makes baseball quite a winning habit.

The Redmen, who do not field a football team, play more than 30 ball games in the fall. This past spring, they played 32 more, winning 22 of their first 25, then running into a four-game losing streak but easily earning the rating of no. 1 among some two dozen teams in ECAC District II.

One-Run Decision. Last Friday, Catholic outlasted St. John's in a see-saw battle, losing a 4-3 lead when the favored New Yorkers edged in front, 5-4, and then shoving over the tieing and winning runs in the eighth for a 6-5 triumph. That put the Cards in the semi-finals next day against Columbia, which rallied to beat Fairleigh-Dickinson, 5-4.

The early defeat required St. John's to play a second game Friday on Clarke Field to determine whether it or Fairleigh-Dickinson would be eliminated by a second loss on the tournament's first day. The outcome was never in doubt: five first-inning St. John's runs led to an easy 6-0 triumph and Fairleigh-Dickinson went home.

In Saturday's first game, Catholic was taken into the 10th inning by Columbia when the Lions stood even with it at 2-2 after nine. There were two out and a man on third in the last of the tenth when the Catholic batter hit to the shortstop, whose throw to first was hurried and low. The runner dove for the bag, raising a huge cloud of dust on the bone-dry infield. When it had all settled, the base umpire had called the runner safe, allowing the man on third to score and giving Catholic a 3-2 triumph.

Later that day, St. John's, looking forward to meeting Catholic in Sunday's final, breezed past Columbia on the strength of a 3-0 shutout. That closed out the season for the Lions, who earlier in the week had lost their Eastern League title to Cornell, 4-0, in a playoff game at Oneonta, N.Y. The St. John's pitcher, lefthander Mike O'Connor, kept his season's record perfect at 9-and-0 and raised his career record to 29-1.

One Game Only on Sunday. Asked what St. John's relative pitching strength was for one and possibly two more games Sunday -- the fourth and fifth in three days -- the Redmen's cheery publicist, Bill Esposito, reported that "I think we are better off than Catholic. We've got a couple of pitchers left, and after their first two games, all they have to go with is a couple of throwers."

It might have been that St. John's had the depth to win a second game Sunday, but it was never played. The first pasted a 4-3 loss on the Redmen's tournament record, sent them home to spend the summer before fall baseball begins, and sent Catholic to Middletown, Conn., where it will play in the six-team tournament whose winner will head for the NCAA Tournament in Omaha.

St. John's edged out to a 2-0 lead with runs in the first and fourth and Catholic shoved over three in the fifth. Each team scored once more in the next inning, and that 4-3 margin eventually became final.

The losers, who had two men thrown out stealing and two others cut down at the plate, had the bases loaded with two out in the ninth. The Catholic catcher's throw on a swinging bunt was into the dirt at first, but the first baseman scooped up the ball for the force and the team they seeded eighth had picked up all the marbles. In 28 innings of play here, the Catholic defense was not charged with a single error.

Action at Middletown, Conn., will begin Thursday and end when five teams have been beaten twice, the survivor earning a berth in the College World Series. In addition to Catholic, those playing will be Cornell, Temple, Connecticut, Seton Hall and Penn State.

PHS STICKMEN OUSTED From NJSIAA Tournament. Princeton High School's first foray into the NJSIAA state lacrosse championship ended quickly here Monday afternoon when the Little Tigers were eliminated, 10-8, in the first round by Clark, a team it had defeated earlier this month.

"We're proud of what we did this year (the Little Tigers are 8-4); we just hoped we could have won this one," said PHS coach Bill Cirullo. "I just don't believe this," the disconsolate coach had said after the game.

"I knew they were capable of beating us, but in my heart and mind, I knew we would be playing Montclair next week. We knew what we had to do. Somehow, we lost perspective during the game and it started to inch away from us."

Leading 4-3 after the first period PHS was blanked during the second and third as

*Defeated Columbia in Playoff, 4-0.

Clark, which evened its record at 6-6, took a 7-4 lead. Five goals were scored in the last four and a half minutes.

Beaten One-on-One. "They won the game on individual play, not as a team," said Cirullo. "They had individuals who outplayed us; we got beat too many times one-on-one.

"As a team we played very well at the start. We exploded against them. But we couldn't put it back together. Where we faltered was in our defensive zone. We got very few shots on goal in the second and third period.

"We had won five in a row. We were sitting high on the hog," Cirullo continued. "But we were working hard at it -- that's why we were an 8-3 club. Today we worked hard and hustled ... we just made too many individual errors."

When Clark's scrappy George Nucera scored with 3:40 left to give Clark a 10-5 bulge, Cirullo flung his clip board to the ground in disgust. But the dormant Little Tigers refused to roll over.

Matt Adriance, all alone in the crease, rammed a shot home with 3:06 left. Less than a minute later, he rifled a bounce shot into the next at the 2:35 mark to cut the margin to 10-7. PHS won the following face off but lost control of the ball and Clark was able to eat up valuable time.

The swarming Little Tigers kept the pressure on. From far out, Chris Cahill wound up like a pitcher and rifled his second goal of the game in the net but only 21 seconds were left and time had run out for Princeton.

Earlier in the game, Johnny Morris and Morgan Mohrman each scored twice, Morhman and Cahill each adding an assist as well. Clark ace Dave Furiness scored three goals while teammate Peter Drummond added three more.

All that's left for PHS is Wednesday's final game with Moorestown here on the John Witherspoon field. PHS would still like to end with a 9-4 record. The question on Cirullo's mind: will the team have enough left after the disappointing loss to Clark?

SEASON WINDING DOWN For Hun School Nine. Although the Hun School baseball team lost a 9-5 decision to rival Pennington School last week -- thereby making its chances of nailing down the fourth and final spot in the Penn-Jersey League playoffs that much harder -- it more than atoned for its disappointment with a memorable 11-10 victory over a strong Delbarton team.

Hun scored seven runs in the last inning to snatch the game away from the stunned Green Wave, the winning run coming in on a wild pitch to Rocky DeBronza. "It was an amazing game to say the least," observed Hun coach Bill McQuade.

Hun has one regular season game left, a Tuesday encounter with Lawrence High School at 4. The game will be played at Lawrence.

Hun (7-11) entered the final frame with Delbarton, trailing the home team, 10-4. "Here we go and lose another," is the way McQuade felt, he revealed later. His team, unlike previous years, is struggling below the .500 mark.

Five hits, three walks, two errors and one wild pitch later, Hun had pushed the winning run across. "It was hard to believe," said McQuade. Dave Dudeck, who had three hits in the game, hit safely twice in the big inning. Jimmy Cortina stroked a bases-loaded single and Rick Arenas drove home two with a double.

Infielder Bob Innocenzi, who hadn't pitched in two years, got the win for Hun when he pitched the last two innings in relief. Tom Dillione pitched the first two innings and Fred Wollman the middle three.

Tim Teel had three of the 12 hits collected by Hun, including a triple. Delbarton had 11 hits and was guilty of five errors -- one less than Hun.

Hun Outslugged. Earlier in the week, Pennington, said McQuade, "came out hitting the cover off the ball. We hit the ball well; too, but they hit the ball a little better than we did."

Dave Santangelo opened the game with a leadoff homer for the visiting Red Raiders and Pennington didn't let up until it had scored four runs in the first frame.

In all, Pennington raked Wollman for 17 hits. Hun banged 10 off winning pitcher Keith Markuson, including a double by Teel, but again was guilty of loose play in the field, committing four errors. Markuson aided his own cause by rapping three hits.

THE BEAT GOES ON PHS Loses to St. Anthony. Whenever a team with a losing streak meets Princeton High, its losing streak ends but Princeton's goes on. It's been that kind of year for the Little Tigers.

A three-game slump for St. Anthony's ended Monday when the Iron Mikes stopped the visiting Little Tigers, 9-5. It was Princeton's fifteenth setback in a row; St. Anthony's tenth win in 19 starts.

As in previous games, PHS took an early lead, scoring one in the first on a walk, Al

Choice of New Tiger Hockey Coach Nears

A new Princeton hockey coach is expected to be announced within the next week. He will replace Jack Semler, the University of Vermont graduate who left earlier this spring to launch an intercollegiate program in the sport at the University of Maine.

Semler was elevated to the varsity position in 1972 while freshman coach at Princeton but was unable to change hockey's fortunes here. His teams won less than a third of their games and last winter defeated only two opponents, Yale and Colgate.

Among those under consideration for the post is Ned Harkness, now coach at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y. A controversial figure, Harkness was suspended earlier this year by Union's president for violating recruiting rules by which the college is bound. Union's trustees later lifted the suspension.

In the early years of the 60s, Harkness upgraded hockey while coaching at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N.Y., and then was instrumental in bringing Cornell to the point where it dominated the Ivy League and later won the NCAA title. Strong recruiting of Canadian players to the Ithaca campus was a highlight of Harkness' regime there -- on occasion, the Cornell roster did not carry a single American.

From there, Harkness moved to Detroit, where he became coach and general manager of the Red Wings in the National Hockey League. Departing there, he went to Union, where his father had once been in charge of hockey and lacrosse.

Harkness' last two years at Union have been markedly successful, and there was a campaign on the college campus to have the college move up from Division II to Division I of the Eastern College Conference. The trustees have vetoed the step, and Harkness' interest in switching to Princeton is based to a degree on his deep desire to coach against the top teams in this section of the country.

Four of five other applicants for the job here are understood to have been in final contention. When Semler announced his decision to leave, the University said it hoped to have his successor named by June 1.

Kandell's single and a fielder's choice. It lasted one inning. In the second, St. Anthony's sent 12 batters to the plate and after the third out owned an 8-1 lead.

Both teams rapped out 11 hits, including three run-scoring triples by Bruno Perna, Dave Miller and Jamie Robertson of PHS -- St. Anthony's only extra base blow was a double -- but inability to bunch its hits or hit with men on base has been one of the negative hallmarks of the star-crossed PHS team.

FINALE WEDNESDAY

For PHS Lacrosse Season. The final regular season game of the Princeton High School lacrosse team will be held this Wednesday at 3:45 when the Little Tigers play host to Moorestown. A win would give PHS a 9-3 record -- its best ever.

A chance to win as many as ten evaporated when last week's scheduled contest with Newton was not played. Newton, reported PHS coach Bill Cirullo, was engaged in tournament games the previous two days and did not want to play a third game in three days.

Cirullo added that Newton officials were not interested in rescheduling the contest even when Princeton High offered three alternative dates.

FINAL GAMES AHEAD

For PHS Tennis Team. The Princeton High School tennis team, loser of only one match so far in regular season competition, will end its schedule this week with games against Moorestown on Wednesday and West Windsor on Thursday. Both will be played at home, starting at 3:45.

The Little Tigers rested last week for Central Jersey NJSIAA action. The only competition was a practice match with Lawrenceville School on Thursday.

'66 ALL STARS VICTOR

In Soccer Tournament. Mike Blaxill scored four goals and Chris Illick anchored the defense as the Princeton Soccer Club 1966 All-Stars defeated West End and Lawrence-Hamnett to become champions of their age group in the second annual Princeton Soccer Club Spring Invitational Tournament held Saturday.

In the opening match against the West End Soccer Association from Trenton, Blaxill scored once in each half as Princeton took a 2-0 lead, surrendered a goal late in the contest but held on to win, 2-1.

In its next match, the Princeton Club defeated Lawrence-Hamnett 5-1, thus avenging a 3-1 loss to the same team the previous Saturday. Blaxill again had two tallies, while Andy Bing contributed two and Peter Wendell one along with several assists. Goalie Steve Bordes limited the opposition to a penalty kick goal. The '66 team's triumph was the first in the brief history of the Princeton Soccer Club since the program began in the fall of 1975.

In other tournament play, Princeton teams did not fare as well. The '64 All-Stars split their two games Saturday but the '65 and '62 sides each suffered two defeats. All Princeton Soccer Club All-star teams will continue play Saturday in dual match play against teams from Arlington, Virginia. The '66 and '65 teams will be at Chapin School while the '64, '62, and Senior High teams will be at Gulick field on the Princeton University campus. The '64s and '66s also take on Arlington Sunday morning at Princeton University.

PLAYOFFS SATURDAY

For Soccer Club Teams. Championships are still up for grabs in all five of the Princeton Soccer Club's Saturday league as the final round of the playoffs starts Saturday. In the Cub League, Callaway faces Firestone for the title. The Youth League concludes with a four-way playoff involving the top two teams in each division: Princeton Pizza Palace, Grover Taxi, Princetonian Hair, and Nassau Inn.

In the Juniors, Rusty Scupper tackles Peterson's Guide's while Laidlaw-Coggeshall battles Commodities Corporation for the Intermediate title. The Seniors finished their regular season with New Jersey National Bank first, Lahiere's second, Princeton Savings and Loan third, and First National Bank fourth. All four have a chance, however, to take the playoff championship in an elimination tournament.

In amateur league soccer, the Princeton Tigers, coached by Louis Baldino, moved into first place in the South Schaeffer League with a 6-1 win over the New Jersey Costaricans.

Tony Garcia and Carlos Aramburo each scored twice and Ciro Baldino and George Ligetti also tallied. Steve Payne, who played in the nets in the absence of Princeton's regular goalies, did an outstanding job, limiting the opposition to a penalty kick. Princeton plays again on Sunday at John Witherspoon field at 2:30 against Flemington.

GIRLS LOSE PAIR

In Softball. The Princeton High School girls softball team dropped a pair last week, losing 7-6 to St. Anthony Monday and 9-2 to Steinert.

Princeton scored runs in the final inning against St. Anthony but was unable to send the tying run across. St. Anthony led, 6-3, after three innings. Carol Ann Mazzella took the loss, Princeton's tenth in 16 outings.

Against Steinert, the Little Tigers played errorless ball but were limited to four hits by winning pitcher Lynda Bruschini, one a double by Peggy Wood. The powerful Spartans (12-1) collected 10 off Mazzella.

PHS SEASON TO END

With Back-to-Back Games. The long and disappointing baseball season for the Princeton High School team, which has seen the Little Tigers suffer through 15 consecutive losses after winning their opening game, will come to an end this week.

The Little Tigers will oppose Ewing Wednesday and then close out the season Thursday against West Windsor. Both games will be played at the PHS diamond, starting at 3:45.

Of course, PHS would like to reverse things and go out a winner, But coach Jim O'Neill has given up any attempts to predict what will happen next in this most unpredictable season.

"We're not putting any pressure on ourselves," said O'Neill. At this point, he commented, all the team can do is have fun, play the best it can and let some of the younger players gain experience.

PHS only loses three varsity players through graduation — Scott Thompson, the veteran shortstop for the past three years; Bruno Perna, a good hitter; and Dave Miller, who can play virtually any position. Naturally, there is some speculation about next year but O'Neill will have none of it.

"I'm through predicting," he said. "I'm going to pull a Pete Carril and say we're only going to win one game."

Last week, in its only outing, PHS dropped a 6-3 decision to Steinert (15-4), ranked 13th in the state.

PHS was still in the game, trailing 4-3 in the fourth, when the Spartan's Jim Bowen hit one deep to center. Johnny Rosenthal backtracked and made a "beautiful catch" said O'Neill.

Hits Post in Center. Unfortunately, the instant Rosenthal gloved the ball, his body collided in mid air with the light post at the end of the football bleachers in center field.

"He hit that post full tilt; he was stopped dead, like running into a brick wall," said O'Neill. Rosenthal slumped to the ground and the ball rolled from his glove. Bowen was awarded a double, allowing two Steinert insurance runs to score.

"He wasn't completely out but we were afraid he would go into shock," continued O'Neill. Rosenthal was taken to the Princeton Medical Center emergency room and x-rayed. Although he missed two days of school, Rosenthal was back at the end of the week practicing with the team." He came out of it a lot luckier than I thought he would," said O'Neill.

"Of course it's ridiculous to have bleachers sitting in center field," O'Neill said, after he reported that many parents had commented on the dangerous situation. (Occasionally during home track meets, a game has to be held up to let runners pass.)

"If Rosey had hit his temple on that post he might have been paralyzed or killed himself," O'Neill went on, isolating one of the handicaps the team has to operate under: imperfect facilities. "The priorities to change this type of thing don't seem to exist at the high school; that's why I get so depressed."

Poor facilities are one reason. O'Neill said that he could come up with scores more for the team's poor showing, but the fact remains, he insisted, that no matter how many reasons there are, the team has not played as well as it should have.

PHS Takes Lead, 3-2. As for the game itself with Steinert, after the Spartans took a quick 2-1 lead in the first, PHS came back with all three of its runs in the same inning. Thompson, Perna and Johnny Miller each singled home runs off starter Bob Kelly.

Steinert tied it in the second. After outfielder Keith Phox gloved the ball for the second out, his relay throw got away from second baseman Johnny Miller allowing Chris Pittaro to score.

Carl Nazzaro, touched for 10 hits by the Spartans, took the loss, his sixth. Jim Rivera won his first game for Steinert in relief.

PBA TEAM WINNER

In Junior Rifle Match. The Princeton PBA 130 Junior Rifle team won the 1977 Jersey Shore Junior League when it defeated Bradley Beach, 1340 to 1317.

Tom Steiner of Hun School was the team's top shooter, scoring 280 out of 300. He was followed by Alice Wagner (276), a Rider College freshman; Alan Schmetzer (269) of Hopewell Valley High School, Bill Ellis (267) of Hamilton High School and Isabel Chenoweth (248) of Princeton High.

Coached by Lt. Richard Steiner of Township police, the team finished league competition with four wins and one loss. Schmetzer had the high single score of the season (283) and the high average. Participating teams in the league are Bradley Beach, Neptune Township, Wall Township and Princeotn.

SWIMMING TO START

For further information, call Jack Roberts of the Recreation Department at 921-9480.

PHS STRONG SECOND

In CVC Track Meet. In the first Colonail Valley Conference track meet held Saturday in West Windsor, Princeton High School finished a strong second to Hopewell Valley, which is undefeated in league compeition. The Bulldogs dominated the meet, amassing 91 points, while PHS collected 48.

West Windsor (25½), Hightstown (23½) and Lawrence (23) were closely bunched, followed by Notre Dame (17) and St. Anthony (11).

Ken Bullock came on strong at the finish to nip Joe Celinski of St. Anthony to win the 440 in 50.5 for the Little Tigers. He then teamed with Andy Logan, Bob Wyland and Lance Phox to take the mile repay in 3:33.8. Princeton's other first-place winner was Eric Suber, who took the shot put with a toss of 47½ feet.

Bullock was also second in the 100-yard dash. Others placing second for the Blue and White were Nick Piroue in the 880, Tony Strong in the 220 and Tony Intartaglia in the javelin.

Earlier in the week, PHS (4-5) captured its third dual meet victory in its last four starts, easily outdistancing Allentown, 84-47. Strong won both the 100 and 220, Wyland finishing second in the 100 and Phox second in the 220.

Barry Turner was another double winner, taking the long jump (21-0) and the high jump (5-6). PHS swept all the field events as Intartaglia won the javelin (165-0), Jean - Paul Mamon the discus (120-2), Paul Hoad the shot (45-3½) and Ayling the pole vault (11-0). Wyland Piroue, Phox and Logan combined to win the mile relay in 3:46.5.

Logan and Bernie Chen finished second and third in both the 120 high burdles and 330 intermediate hurdles. Brad Ogilvie was second in the mile and Piroue second in the 880. Bob Wiley won the 440 for PHS in 54.8.
